UNILATERAL TRUCE URGED

Laird Calls It Bad Idea

. . . SCOTT HAS IT

Washington (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott proposed Wednesday that the United States unilaterally proclaim a cease-fire in Vietnam, but Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird rejected the idea.

"I do not believe that would be a successful approach," Laird told a group of reporters. "As secretary of defense I would caution against a unilateral action on the part of the United States without some firm indication from the other side that we would have assurance that they would go along with it."

Scott Wants Deadline

Scott said he hopes President Nixon will set a date on which American forces will stop shooting unless attacked.

Scott, the administration's chief spokesman on the Senate floor, said he was not signaling any White House intention.

"This is not a trial balloon for the President," Scott said, "it's a personal hope."

But Scott's expression of that hope, for a course long advocated by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, was certain to heighten speculation that Nixon plans some such dramatic move in his Nov. 3 Vietnam report to the nation.

Scott Admits Speculating

Scott said he was speculating himself.

"I wouldn't think anything could happen of that kind before Nov. 3," he said.

Laird cautioned against speculation on what Nixon will say in his speech 10 days hence.

Both Scott and Mansfield said the administration's new battlefield policy of protective reaction represents a major step toward a cease-fire.

Under that policy, Mansfield said, U.S. troops fire only to forestall enemy attack.

"This is certainly a far cry from the tactics of maximum pressure, and search and destroy," Mansfield said, "and to me is an indication that the President is moving toward a cease-fire and stand-fast policy."

Authority Described

Laird first used the term "protective reaction" to describe authority U.S. commanders have been given in conducting border area attacks as a means of defending their positions. He said, for example, that U.S. troops were allowed to move into the edge of Laos to ferret out the enemy while under heavy attack.

"That was protective reaction," he said. "It does not mean we are just going to stand still and be fired upon."

Said Scott: "I think the time has come to move from protective reaction to an announcement that on a certain date, we will stop firing, and if we are not fired on, then a cease-fire will occur."

The Pennsylvania senator said that amounts to unilateral initiation of a cease-fire.

Scott said he thinks the Communists might respond to such a cease-fire, in which there would be no formal agreement to stop the fighting.

"They don't want to lose face," he said, "what we don't want to lose is skin."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., meanwhile accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of deliberately and cynically attempting to "discredit the patriotism" of Americans who demonstrate in opposition to administration policy.

"Is there any doubt that he does this with the approval of the President?" McGovern said.

Volunteers Supplement School Nursing Service

Volunteers provided 1,351 hours of nursing service to Lincoln schools last year as a part of the Red Cross school health program.

Some 34 women worked a few hours every week in eight schools last year, and more volunteers are expected to set a new service record in more schools this year, according to program director Mrs. G. W. Knight.

The volunteers, who are each given the standard first aid course by the Red Cross, staff the nurse's room in participating schools when the school nurse is not available.

Most schools do not have full-time nurses, Mrs. Knight pointed out. So for the past two years the Red Cross, the school nursing service and the PTA and parents groups have cooperated to recruit and train volunteers to supplement the nurse's office.

While the volunteers are limited in the duties they can perform in the school, the service does help fill voids in staffing that otherwise must be handled entirely by clerical persons or the principal, she said.

Each principal decides whether he wants volunteers in the nurse's office, according to Mrs. Knight.

Some schools have not been interested, she added, because the administrators feel they can handle nursing problems better themselves and do not want the responsibility of volunteer help.

Also helping to direct the program are Mrs. Russell Carlson and nursing director Mrs. Helen Weber.

Fights Heat Up Old Battlefields

Saigon (AP) — New fighting raged on old battlefields in the central highlands and around Tay Ninh city, U.S. Command spokesmen said Wednesday.

There was no pattern in the string of fights to indicate a new enemy offensive, but both areas — scenes of some of the war's major battles — had been relatively quiet during the past four months.

U.S. and government troops killed 75 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong while suffering one killed and four wounded, the spokesmen said.

GI's Blast Through

Troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division blasted their way through a pair of enemy ambushes in the highlands Tuesday, killing 34 North Vietnamese regulars. American casualties were one man killed and two wounded.

The fighting around Tay Ninh city, a thriving provincial capital 50 miles northwest of Saigon, was even more one-sided with soldiers of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and government militiamen killing 41 of the enemy at a loss of two militiamen wounded.

North Vietnamese army troops, who lost 12 men in a Sunday clash, set an ambush around a U.S. armored personnel carrier that had been damaged and abandoned in the Sunday fight. When 4th Division armored troops moved in Tuesday to retrieve the carrier, in the highlands 19 miles northwest of Pleiku, the entrenched enemy opened fire at a range of 100 yards, an Army spokesman said.

The U.S. mechanized company shot back with its .50-caliber machine guns and called for fire support from artillery batteries, helicopter gunships and dive bombers.

In 15 minutes the North Vietnamese soldiers broke and fled back into the jungle, leaving 24 bodies. U.S. losses were one killed and two wounded.

An estimated 35 North Vietnamese soldiers tried to pull a second ambush on a small 4th Division supply convoy threading through Mang Yang Pass on Highway 19 between Pleiku and An Khe.

Teachers To Hear Top Speakers

. . . NEW WORKSHOP FORMAT SET FOR CONVENTION

With a new format for curriculum workshops, widely-recognized speakers and a full house of exhibitors, the annual District I teachers' convention opening Thursday expects to break attendance records again this year.

Frank Mills, president of the 13-county district of the Nebraska State Education Association, estimated that more than 5,000 area educators and visitors will attend the two-day event.

During the first vacation for school students this fall, teachers and administrators will participate in a wide variety of programs to be held all over the city. General sessions and most of the elementary meetings will be staged at Pershing Auditorium where some 75 educational exhibits are located.

Delegates are voting on a slate of officers to be announced late Thursday.

Dr. William Glasser, a psychiatrist and author of the new book "Schools Without Failure," will open the convention activities Thursday morning with an address. New York Congresswoman Mrs. Shirley Chisholm will speak on the "social revolution" at a general session Friday morning.

The convention, crammed with breakfast, luncheon and dinner meetings in between the workshops and special group sessions, actually started for some educators Wednesday night with a meeting of the International Reading Association.

Dr. Wallace Z. Ramsey, professor of education at the University of Missouri at St. Louis, spoke on reading from kindergarten through high school.

Mills pointed out that a large number of highly qualified resource personnel are being brought in for the sectional meetings on specific topics to "give the convention-goer more for his money."

Small sectional meetings have been eliminated this year, he explained to provide a divisional approach.

Friday afternoon sectional meetings for elementary school personnel will deal with class management techniques and individualized instruction.

A special feature for secondary teachers will be a program on secondary education in eastern Europe presented by Lincoln High Principal William B. Bogar who toured the area last spring.

Arabs Demonstrate Against Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Lebanese Prime Minister Rashid Karami resigned Wednesday after bloody clashes between the Lebanese army and Palestinian guerrillas. The fighting unleashed a storm of protests at home and abroad and brought threats from other Arab nations.

Iraq offered the guerrillas military aid. Syria closed its border with Lebanon, and Libya recalled its ambassador.

Thousands of Arabs demonstrated in the streets of Beirut, the Lebanese capital, and Iraquis besieged the Lebanese Embassy in Baghdad. Jordanian demonstrators tore down American and Lebanese flags in Amman.

Elsewhere in the Middle East, there were these developments:

—In Cairo, an Egyptian government spokesman accused the United States of supporting Israel with men as well as arms and said the presence of Americans in Israeli uniforms "destroys all hope of any peaceful solution in the Middle East." The U.S. has denied it.

—In Israel, four bombs, apparently planted by terrorists, rocked a residential area of Haifa, killing one person and injuring 12. It was the worst terrorist incident in the port city in 20 years. Israeli security forces rounded up dozens of Arabs for questioning.

—The Egyptian military command said a number of Israeli jets tried to bomb Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal Wednesday but were driven off by antiaircraft fire, the Middle East News Agency said.

Karami announced he was resigning "because it is not logical for one to assume responsibility for something on which one has no say and which goes against one's opinions and beliefs."

He disclaimed responsibility for the army-guerrilla clashes and implied the army had acted without his knowledge.

Blame Put On Guerrillas

The army issued a statement saying clashes in southern Lebanon over the past week were started by guerrillas who tried to set up positions in frontier villages.

It said two soldiers and five guerrillas were killed, and six soldiers, two civilians and six guerrillas were wounded.

It was the most serious clash between the army and the guerrillas since last April, when Karami resigned after bloody street riots. He returned to try to form a new government but was unsuccessful.

Curfew On Tripoli

The government clamped an indefinite curfew Wednesday on the northern town of Tripoli, a center of guerrilla support and Karami's hometown.

In southern Lebanon, where thousands of Palestinian refugees are crowded in camps in Sidon and Tyre, a ban on demonstrations was proclaimed until further notice.

Reports of the clashes in Lebanon sparked demonstrations and led to strong protests from Libya, Algeria, Syria and Iraq.

Farmer Praises Nixon's Welfare Proposal

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

President Nixon's proposal to revolutionize the welfare system should be "a significant step" toward improving the economic lot of black Americans, James Farmer said Wednesday.

Not only would it increase government payments to the poor, but it also provides job training, job placement and work incentives, the assistant secretary of health, education and welfare told a Lincoln news conference.

"It should help people get off welfare, instead of mirring them into reliance on the dole," Farmer said.

Not This Session

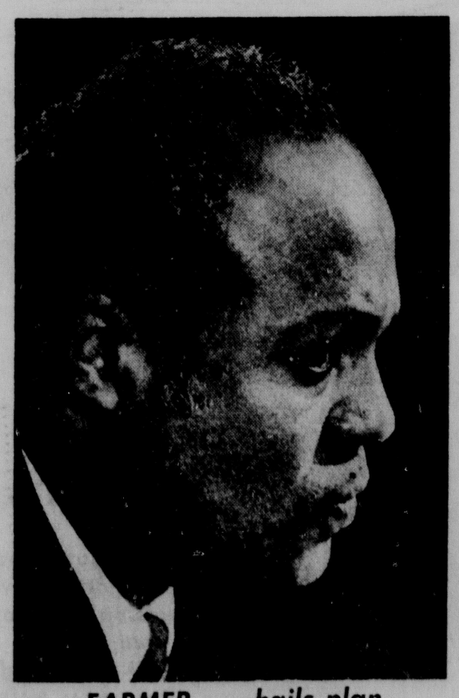
Farmer, the highest-ranking black official in the Nixon administration, expects the welfare plan to be approved, "but probably not in this session of Congress."

A former director of the Congress of Racial Equality and activist civil rights leader, Farmer said the administration's efforts in behalf of black Americans have cut into black distrust of Nixon.

"The black community's attitude has softened," he said. "There are lots of problems, but we're working on them."

Farmer denied that the administration is slowing the pace of school desegregation by withdrawing pending cases from the courts.

"We are trying to speed up the process by changing administrative procedures," he said.



FARMER . . . hails plan.

Desegregation has moved "at a snail's pace" since the U.S. Supreme Court's 1954 decision, Farmer said.

"I think you will find that there has been more actual desegregation during this present one-year period than during any other year since 1954," he noted.

Credit for that advance should be shared by the Nixon administration and its predecessor, he said.

The relatively quiet summer of 1969 should not permit Americans "to delude ourselves into thinking the problems of the cities have been solved," Farmer noted.

Trouble Next Summer

Unless more is accomplished in anti-poverty efforts during the coming year, the nation will face "a problem situation" in the cities next summer, he predicted.

The relatively peaceful summer can be credited both to police restraint in the large cities and "positive effects" of the anti-poverty program, he said, including the employment of many young militants who participated in previous riots.

Farmer, in Lincoln to address a national workshop on the use of non-professional personnel in home economics, said he does not regard himself as the administration's "showcase Negro."

'Given Power'

"I have been given considerable power and influence," he said. "And I have gotten virtually all I have sought."

Included in the latter category would be the formation in HEW of a new Office of Child Development and an Office of New Careers designed to improve the delivery of anti-poverty services to the poor.

His boss, Secretary Robert Finch, is timber . . . in 1976 maybe."

New York Times News Summary

Defense Chief Opposes Unilateral Cease-Fire

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Emphasizing that he was expressing a personal view, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird opposed Wednesday any American cease-fire in Vietnam that was not part of a broader agreement with the North Vietnamese. His statement was taken as an administration reaction to congressional proposals, the most recent from the Senate Republican leader, Hugh Scott, that the United States adopt a cease-fire and "stand-fast" position in Vietnam. (More on Page 1.)

Decentralization Endorsed

Rome — Pope Paul VI, speaking to pilgrims in St. Peter's Basilica, endorsed the decentralization of church power and concentration of power at the local and regional levels that has been the general aim of his synod of bishops now meeting in Rome. (More on Page 32.)

Lebanese Premier Quitting

Beirut — Lebanon's Premier Rashid Karami announced that he was resigning because of clashes between Lebanese troops and Palestinian commandos in southern Lebanon. (More on Page 1.)

Vietnam Strategy Unchanged

Saigon — There has been no basic change in orders on tactics and strategy in the past six months, American military commanders of various ranks said in interviews in Vietnam. They denied that they had been ordered to keep down casualties, though "word has gone out" about sensitivity over casualties. (More on Page 39.)

HHH: Obligation Fulfilled

Tokyo — The United States has achieved its Vietnam objectives and fulfilled its obligations to the South Vietnamese people, Hubert H. Humphrey said in an interview. (More on Page 38.)

Turner Accused Of Perjury

Washington — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting chairman of the Senate committee investigating irregularities in the operation of Army servicemen's clubs, charged Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, the former provost marshal-general of the Army, with giving perjured testimony to the committee. Ribicoff also ordered a transcript of the general's testimony forwarded to the Justice Department for action. (More on Page 37.)

McCormack Kept Sweig On

Washington — For several weeks after the Justice Department reportedly told House Speaker John W. McCormack that his administrative assistant, Dr. Martin Sweig, was under investigation, McCormack kept Sweig in his job, reliable sources on Capitol Hill said. (More on Page 53.)

Consumer Message Weakened

Washington — President Nixon is expected to send to Congress soon proposed consumer affairs legislation that promises to disappoint advocates of strong legislative and administrative action on behalf of consumers. (More on Page 20.)

N.Y.C. Minimum Wage Going Up

New York — Businesses that do business with New York City will be required to pay their employes at least $2.50 an hour beginning Jan. 1 under the terms of a bill signed into law by Mayor John V. Lindsay. The current city minimum wage is $1.75 an hour and the current national minimum wage is $1.60. Statisticians said some 100,000 workers would be affected.

Heroin Sales Increase

New York — Heroin sales have jumped among children in New York City as a result of the recent "Operation Intercept," which restricted the flow of marijuana into the United States, a joint state legislative committee was told. An expert testified that the federal operation drove the price of marijuana so high that it became competitive with heroin. (More on Page 36.)

Florida Hoists Gale Warnings

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Gale warnings were raised from Fort Myers to Key West Wednesday as Hurricane Laurie sloshed across the Gulf of Mexico toward the southwest tip of Florida.

A hurricane watch was in effect along a 350-mile stretch of coait, and boaters along the lower west coast, the Keys and Florida Bay were advised not to stray far from shore.

At midafternoon, Laurie was some 265 miles north-northwest of Key West moving southeasterly at 10 m.p.h. with top winds in gusts of 85 m.p.h.

Gale winds and torrential rains covered the water about 100 miles to the north and east of the storm.

"The storm is diminishing and is only a shadow of its former self," said Dr. Robert Simpson who predicted Laurie would enter Florida Bay late Thursday afternoon.

Simpson, who heads the National Hurricane Center at Miami, stressed that residents along coastal areas should maintain their vigil. "The storm could reintensify," he said.

The landfall target area at Florida Bay is virtually uninhabited except for a small resort at Flamingo, at the southwestern end of Everglades National Park. The shallow bay separates that corner of the Florida peninsula from the Keys.

Simpson said the storm would be accompanied by tides up to four feet above normal and could loose as much as six inches of rain over south Florida.

Meanwhile, forecasters at the hurricane center said a 500-foot tanker, the Guadeloupe, was in the calm eye of the strom Wednesday morning and reported it had recorded 85 m.p.h. winds just before entering the eye.

"We've had no distress reports from the tanker," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "As far as we know, it's all right."

Agency Says Police 'Heighten Tensions'

Washington (UPI) — A Justice Department agency reported Wednesday that the use of police to put down high school and college disorders increased tensions between protesters and administrations.

"The use of police by school officials tended to heighten school tensions and increase the polarization between administrators and student protesters, and further increased the continuing tensions between brown, black and white students," the report said.

The Community Relations Service released conclusions of its study of 101 high schools and 39 colleges and universities in 17 states and 52 cities, conducted "in an attempt to gather some meaningful information on student unrest."

Where administrators were fearful and viewed student demands as defiance of authority, the CRS found "a preponderance of suspensions and a tendency to tighten discipline and to call in the police at the first sign of trouble. The battle lines were drawn and more conflict occurred."

Seventy-five per cent of the high schools and colleges studied in the two-week survey experienced some form of unrest last year and "the sampling clearly indicated the probability that many . . . will have some form of student upheaval this school year," the report said.

The reported effects of police action contrasted with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's Law Day speech in Detroit last May 1, in which he said: "If arrests must be made, than arrests there should be . . . It is no admission of defeat . . . to use reasonable physical force to eliminate physical force. The price of civil tranquility cannot be paid by submission to violence and terror."

However, Mitchell urged — as does the CRS report — that school administrators consult with local law enforcement officials on the methods of handling various disturbances.

Persian Gulf Federation Is Launched

The New York Times

Abu Dhabi, Trucial Oman — The Federation of Gulf emirates was launched Wednesday with the election by nine Persian Gulf rulers of Sheik Zayed of Abu Dhabi as its first president and selection of Abu Dhabi as provisional capital.

The nine sheiks decided to build a permanent capital in the desert between Abu Dhabi and Dubai. There was talk about spending the equivalent of $500 million on construction of the new capital.

The first and most critical meeting of the supreme council of gulf emirates has thus ended in victory for the richest and most powerful of the nine rulers, Sheik Zayed Bin Sultan Al Mihayan, whose income is the equivalent of $190 million a year and still going up.

The rulers vote made Sheik Zayed president for two years, but his powers remain to be determined by a constitution still being studied by a committee of the rulers.

Further decisions are expected to complete the framework of the federation by naming a premier and cabinet and determining the form of the federation's national assembly and armed forces.

It was decided, however, that the assembly should be composed of equal numbers of representatives from each of the nine sheikdoms. Thus, Sujaira with about 3,000 inhabitants will have the same representation as Bahrein with 120,000.

There is no lack of confidence in the future despite a new oil strike by the Phillips Oil Co. announced Tuesday. The main income of the state is derived from operations by British Petroleum and the French Compagnie Francais des Petroles on Das Island, and by a subsidairy of the Iraq Petroleum Co. onshore. A concession is also held by two Japanese consortiums, one of which recently made a strike offshore.

Triumph Over Rivalry

In the election of Sheik Zayed as president and in placing their capital squarely between Abu Dhabi and Dubai, the sheiks triumphed over the principal rivalry within their federation, between Zayed of Abu Dhabi and Sheik Rashid of Dubai.

The two neighboring sheikdoms are at present spending hundreds of millions of dollars for development of their ports, because neither is willing to be dependent on the other. Each is anxious to outdo the other in the size and excellence of its schools and hospitals.

Zayed is closely allied with Sharja and at odds with Saudi Arabia, which has never abandoned its claim to the six Buraimi oases from which the Saudis were expelled by the British-led Trucial Oman scouts in 1955.

Dubai, Qatar Linked

Dubai, on the other hand, is closely allied with Qatar, which is intimately associated with Saudi Arabia politically and religiously.

A question hanging over the federation now is whether it will be accepted by the shah of Iran who still claims the island of Bahrein, one of the nine members of the federation.

Six months ago the shah intimated through diplomatic channels that he would never recognize the federation as long as Bahrein remained a member.

The nine states of the federation are: Sharja, Ras El Khaima, Fujaira, Bahrein, Ajman, Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Qatar and Umm Al Qaiwain.

Frei Says Chile Crisis Overcome

Santiago, Chile (AP) — With a warning that the people of Chile will not tolerate military coups, President Eduardo Frei said Wednesday the country's crisis had been overcome and that rebel soldiers would be tried by military tribunals.

Frei told his people during a broadcast that the country would remain under a "state of siege" until normalcy returns. He said he had ordered a full investigation into the gunfire wounding of 14 civilians Tuesday night.

The president made no mention that he had bowed to at least one of the demands made by the rebels, headed by Gen. Roberto Viaux, who surrendered at daybreak and is under house arrest.

Shortly before noon, Frei removed Defense Minister Gen. Tulio Marambio and replaced him with Sergio Ossa, until then the minister of public works and transportation. The rebels had demanded Marambio's ouster and appointment of a civilian.

Frei said the rebellion, which amounted to little more than a strike by officers and men of the Tacna Regiment of the 2nd Division, had created tremendous interest abroad.

"Today, they have the answer," Frei said. "In Chile, the armed forces do not accept indiscipline, and the people do not tolerate coups d'etat."

Chile has not had a military coup in more than 30 years, but American companies — which have about $1 billion invested in Chilean copper mines — were fearful of a military takeover. The rebellion recalled recent coups in Peru and Bolivia, where U.S. firms were nationalized by the new governments.

Sioux City's Vandalism Detail Enlarged As Crime Rate Rises

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — Police in Sioux City are beefing up a special vandalism detail to cope with increased crime which the city manager says he thinks is related to a strike at Dakota City, Neb.

Meanwhile, authorities in nearby Union County, S.D., investigated dynamite blasts which damaged four pieces of construction equipment.

Sheriff Ed Ekren said the equipment was owned by a construction company that was building housing for the Iowa Beef Packers Inc. plant at Dakota City, where a strike has been in progress for two months.

Vandalism Up 39%

Sioux City manager Buford Watson said Wednesday four more officers will be added this weekend to a five-man vandalism detail that has been working nights since about Oct. 10.

Watson said he set up the special detail to deal with vandalism, which he said increased 39% in the city from August to September. The Dakota City plant was struck Aug. 24.

"We think it's related to the strike," Watson said. "Although I can't prove it, the evidence is circumstantial."

He said there have been around 200 tire slashings reported, a couple of garages set on fire and some threatening telephone calls.

Most of the victims, Watson said, have been either employes or customers of the struck plant. "I don't think it's a coincidence," he added.

Watson said the special vandalism detail increased the police department's night force from 25 to 30 men. The total will be 34 starting this weekend.

Samore Disagrees

Sioux City police had speculated that a fatal shooting there Tuesday could be related to the strike, but Woodbury County Atty. Edward Samore disagreed.

"At this point I have not seen any connection whatsoever between the assault itself and the strike," Samore said Wednesday.

Charges of murder were filed against Harold Eugene Johnson, 36, Sioux City, in connection with the shooting. He was one of the strikers from the beef plant.

Another striker who was at the shooting scene, Roger D. Harnack, 21, Sioux City, was charged with arson in connection with a garage fire early Tuesday morning.

Nancy Nielsen, 16, Sioux City, was killed and her sister, Michaelene, 19, who was also a striker, was wounded in the Tuesday shooting.

See Connection

Two Sioux City men who were victims of violence Tuesday said they thought the vandalism was connected with the strike. Both said they weren't afraid.

The men are Gary Goodwin, 26, processing personnel director for the Dakota City Iowa Beef Packers plant, and Donald Bartholomew, a telephone installer for Northwestern Bell.

A dynamite explosion ripped through a basement wall in Goodwin's house early Tuesday morning. About two hours later, Bartholomew's garage was set on fire.

Harnack was charged in connection with both those incidents.

Bartholomew said he feels the garage fire was "intimidation" directed at an Iowa Beef employe from whom Bartholomew purchased the house a month and a half ago.

George Meany, national president of the AFL-CIO, Tuesday urged all labor union members to boycott products of Iowa Beef Packers, which he said is "a bitter foe of organized labor."

Marsha's Cow Tagged National Grand Champ

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — Color Marsha Schmidt "the gal who wouldn't believe the blue ribbon."

The disappointing blue, coming this summer at the Jefferson County Fair, had broken a long string of purples for her prized milking shorthorn. Did it mean that Crest View Mary 3d was really slipping?

No indeed, as indicated a few weeks later when the cow was judged reserve champion at the Nebraska State Fair. Next: a third straight grand championship at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Full vindication has come with Marsha's return from the National Milking Shorthorn Show at Columbus, Ohio, with an armload of trophies and a top title. Crest View Mary was named grand champion female, as well as second best uddered cow. The breed exhibit was part of the North American Dairy Show.

"I never really doubted her, but of course the blue had been depressing," said the Fairbury High School senior, 17. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Schmidt.

Marsha is currently a member of Kettle and Kattle, a 4-H club sponsored by her parents. She also has nine years behind her in Country Cousins and Clover Leaf clubs.

What with harvest, farrowing pigs and his own shorthorn herd to milk, Marsha's dad had to forego the Ohio trip. So Mrs. Schmidt volunteered to truck the 1,721 miles.

Besides the several mementoes which accompanied the top award, they returned with a bonus. Born to the three-year-old cow two days prior to the judging was a cuddly calf, L S and F Ohio Sandy.

Part of its name stems from "Lawrence Schmidt and family," and part is in honor of close friend Sandy Bast. The Ohio portion is obvious.

"The trip was one I'll always remember," beamed Marsha, who hopes to become a psychiatrist. "I'm kind of glad we went."

The Nebraska delegates, Patsy O'Connor, Fairmont; Jinger Jorgensen, Exeter; and Teresa Bedient, Bradshaw; are being recognized for excellence of their over-all safety programs in 4-H club work.

The trio have received expense-paid trips to the congress, sponsored by Farmers Mutual Insurance Co. and the Nebraska Safety Council. The congress emphasizes the importance of traffic and personal safety.

Miss O'Connor, 15, a sophomore at Fairmont High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Connor.

A Seward County 4-H'er, Jinger Jorgensen is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jorgensen of Exeter.

Miss Bedient, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Bedient of Bradshaw, is a freshman at the University of Nebraska.

Business Continues Upward Trend

Nebraska business activity in July continued to advance in general over the pace of a year ago at the same time, according to Business in Nebraska, monthly publication of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration's Bureau of Business Research.

The dollar volume index rose 7% above that recorded in July of last year, while the physical volume rose 3%, reflecting inflationary trends.

This rise was supported by increases in life insurance sales, electricity produced, manufacturing and other employment, gasoline sales, retail sales and newspaper advertising. Bank debits, construction and cash farm marketings showed declines.

Paced by a 16.6% increase at Sidney and a 15.7% jump at Broken Bow, the August general business index for Nebraska was 2.6% higher than August, 1968. General business indicators include bank debits, building activity, retail sales, electricity and gas consumed, water pumped, postal receipts and newspaper advertising.

Other communities recording general business gains were Lincoln, 14.6; Scottsbluff, 13.4; North Platte, 12.1; Kearney, 10.2; Fremont, 8.4; York, 7.3; Beatrice, 6.7; Holdrege, 6.7; Fairbury, 6.6; Omaha, 6.6; Nebraska City, 5.9; Columbus, 4.8; Grand Island, 4.7; Falls City, 4.5; McCook, 2.7; Hastings, 1.1; and Alliance, .8.

Declines were recorded by Chadron, -.3; Norfolk, -5.2, and South Sioux City, -5.6.

August retail sales were 2.2% higher than a year ago. The sale of soft goods rose due to a 17% gain in the sale of dairy and other food products. Hard goods sales were down due to a 16% dip in farm equipment sales.

The report on retail sales, adjusted for seasonal change:

Dedication Set For Dana Hall, Library

Blair (UPI) — Blair Hall, residence for women and the C. A. Dana-Life Library will be formally dedicated at Dana College on Sunday.

Blair Hall, named as a salute to the centennial anniversary of the city of Blair, is a five-story structure providing living space for 148 women students. It was constructed at a cost of $500,000.

The C. A. Dana-Life Library, a million dollar project, was provided through a gift from the C. A. Dana Foundation in New York and funds received from the Lutheran ingathering for education program (Life) of the American Lutheran Church.

The completion of the two buildings marks the close of Dana's "decade of dedication" — 1959-1969 — during which time a total of eight buildings have been constructed at a cost of some over $8 million.

Les Trussell Chosen Head Of Vision-17

Les Trussell of Beatrice was elected president of Vision-17 for 1970 at a board meeting in Lincoln.

Trussell, general manager of Norris Public Power District, has been on the Vision-17 board since its inception in 1967 and currently serves as secretary.

LES TRUSSELL

Vice presidents of the area development organization for 17 southeastern Nebraska counties are Floyd Vrtiska, Pawnee County commissioner from Table Rock, Jim Westring of Stromsburg and Dale Young of Lincoln. Dean Goings of Seward is the new secretary, replacing Trussell, and Bill Dawson of Nebraska City is treasurer.

The Vision-17 board also approved plans for the annual membership dinner to be held in Lincoln Nov. 17.

Girls Town Alternatives Under Study

Omaha (AP) — Officials of the Good Shepherd Order are taking a second look at their plans to build a new $2.5 million Girls Town west of Omaha.

The planned site of the facility, on the Elkhorn River, isn't far from the proposed Platte River Dam, said Harold Youngren, Good Shepherd business administrator.

The present Girls Town, formerly called Good Shepherd Home, is in Omaha.

Youngren said the 2½-acre Girls Town site has been purchased and wouldn't be disturbed by the proposed Platte River Dam.

He said officials are considering three alternatives. They are using the proposed site, building somewhere in Omaha, or finding another site in western Douglas County.

He said the order has $1.5 million and expects to sell present property for another million dollars.

House Backers Of Moratorium Getting Skittish

Washington (UPI) — House backers of the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium, apparently skittish about some of the sponsors of the upcoming November demonstrations, met Wednesday with W. Averell Harriman, who reportedly expressed similar concerns.

Harriman, who led the U.S. negotiating team at the Paris talks during the Johnson administration, was invited to advise about 40 of the 82 congressmen who supported the Oct. 15 demonstrations.

Operatic Bass, Pechner, Dies

The New York Times

New York — Gerhard Pechner, 66, a bass who sang more than 30 roles with the Metropolitan Opera from 1941 to 1966, died Wednesday at a hospital after a long illness.

Pechner, a native of Berlin, made his debut at the age of 21 at the Berlin Municipal Opera. When World War II broke out, he came to this country, making his debut with the San Francisco Opera in 1940.

New Car Sales Down Slightly

Detroit (UPI- — Sales of 1970 model automobiles dipped slightly during the second 10 days of October, the big three automakers reported Wednesday

Spokesmen for Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. reported slightly increased sales but General Motors Corp. said strikes were hurting deliveries and had caused a drip in sales.

Matejka Likely To File Charges In Son's Beating

Omaha (AP) — Asst. City Atty. Walter Matejka says he may sue four Omaha policemen who arrested his son, Stephen, 17, in August. Matejka says the officers beat his son after the arrest.

The youth was sentenced to 20 days in jail by Omaha Municipal Judge Paul Hickman for reckless driving. He was arrested in Sarpy County after a chase by police.

Young Matejka said he was beaten by the officers when arrested. After an investigation by the city, the four were given temporary suspensions from the police force.

The youth's father said Wednesday he may file suit against the officers in Sarpy County.

Fatal Shooting Of Omaha Girl Ruled Accidental

Omaha (AP) — The fatal shooting Sunday of Denise Kay Vaughn, 14, Omaha, was accidental, Elizabeth Pittman, deputy Douglas County attorney, has ruled.

Mrs. Pittman said no charges will be filed against Robert Owens, 17, Omaha, who was handling the gun which killed the girl. She was struck in the temple by a bullet.

Owens has been transferred to the Douglas County Jail for possible violation of parole from the State Boys Training School at Kearney, Mrs. Pittman reported.

Taxes Of Primary Concern During Papillion 'Town Hall'

Papillion (AP) — The topic was taxes when Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann and other state officials met with citizens here in another of the governor's series of "town hall" sessions.

An estimated 110 persons threw questions at the governor and 11 other state officials for more than an hour and a half.

Questions concerned the proposed widening of Highway 85 which serves as Papillion's main street, the operations of the State Crime Commission and auto safety inspections, as well as taxes.

State Tax Commissioner Murrel McNeill was asked why the valuation of Sarpy County farmland was raised 15% by the state after the land was subjected to a state-imposed 50% valuation hike two years ago.

McNeill said the increase was due to the rising market value of the agricultural land in the county.

Another citizen asked when state sales and income taxes will begin to provide some relief from local property taxes.

The tax commissioner noted that about $500,000 in state tax receipts will be returned to Sarpy County next year and without this assistance "your taxes would be considerably higher."

Tyndall Hearing Set For Nov. 6

Pender (AP) — A preliminary hearing is set for Nov. 6 for Dennis Tyndall, 31, Macy, on a charge of kidnap and rape in connection with an incident near Macy last summer.

Tyndall was held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

He was the only one of the seven who was not taken into custody immediately after the alleged kidnap and rape incident involving an Omaha couple near Macy.

Tyndall was arrested in Topeka, Kan., last week and returned to Pender.

The other six have asked a change of venue but no ruling has been made.

McCook To Host Aging Conference

A one-day conference on aging will be held Friday at the McCook Junior High School, the University of Nebraska said.

The program is designed to help community leaders analyze the services and opportunities in their areas for older citizens

The conference will include speeches and a panel discussion involving state officials, university faculty members and representatives of various programs and facilities dealing with the elderly.

Youth Is Booked In Fatal Shooting

Omaha (AP)— Richard Duff, 19, Omaha, was arrested Wednesday by Omaha police and booked on suspicion of murder and on suspicion of shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim in connection with the fatal shooting Tuesday night of Dero Allen Wright Jr., 19, Omaha.

Police said Wright was shot with a .22 caliber pistol after an argument concerning a girl.

Another Omaha youth, Michael Williams, 19, was hospitalized and reported in fair condition Wednesday with a bullet wound he suffered in the incident.

Tornado Count Down This Year

The Weather Bureau reports 20 tornadoes have been counted in Nebraska this year, one less than in 1968.

The tornado count reached 46 in 1965.

Richard Myers, state climatologist for the environmental science services administration, said it's difficult to compile an accurate count of tornadoes because it is possible for twisters to occur without ever being seen in the sparsely populated Sand Hills.

None of this year's tornadoes was characterized as "bad."

Holdrege — Re-elected president of the Phelps County Farm Bureau was Waldron Erickson. Other officers include Millard Johnson, vice president, and Arlan Edgren, youth member.

Rattlesnake Bites Eustis Toddler

Eustis—Craig Fasse, 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Fasse of Eustis, was reported in satisfactory condition in a Cozad hospital with a rattlesnake bite.

The child was bitten while playing in the front yard of the family's farm home southwest of Eustis.

Mrs. Fasse said she heard Craig start to cry and saw the rattlesnake in the yard. When she checked the boy she found he had been bitten on the knee.

Rites Held For H. B. Hutchman, Retired Minister

Murray—Funeral services were held here Monday at the United Presbyterian Church for the Rev. Howard B. Huchman, a retired United Presbyterian pastor who died in Lincoln after a long illness.

A native of Alleghany County, Pennsylvania, the Rev. Mr. Hutchman attended seminary at Groves City, Pa., and served churches at Murray, Clearfield, Iowa, in Wisconsin and at Emporia, Kan., his last charge.

He retired about 30 years ago and moved to Murray. For the past six years he resided at the Clarke Jeary Memorial Manor in Lincoln.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You lose a few and win a few. So goes a philosophical little statement. It smacks a bit of the kind of fatalism that can sap your ambition but it has a grain of truth in it.

Yesterday, the people won one. They won when the Senate turned down a proposed $45 million extension of the west front of the Capitol. Now that extension might be a real nice thing but, somehow, we have the idea that the country can get along without it, at least while we are in the midst of a fight against inflation.

One was lost a few days ago. It was announced that a new $2 million golf course would be built for President Nixon at his Florida coastal residence. The story didn't say where the money is coming from but it is a rather strange development in light of the President's plea that citizens refrain from needless expenditures to help fight inflation.

And the one that has a lot of people talking to themselves is the recent announcement that the Pentagon is spending $600,000 for research at the University of Mississippi to find out if birds can be trained to carry out certain military jobs.

It used to be an insult to be called a "bird brain" but maybe all that will have to change. And maybe birds will replace computers as the standing threat to mankind.

It seems the military wants to know if the birds can handle such things as aerial photography, gunnery, steering of missiles, detection of mines and search and destroy missions.

This comes, not only while we are all supposed to be pinching our pennies against inflation, but after an announcement some time ago that many government sponsored medical research efforts would be discontinued.

It is remarkable that we can find the money to train birds in military tactics but have no funds to continue research in such fields as cancer, heart disease, infant mortality and a host of others. But if the military turns out to be the right place for the birds, it will prove what a lot of people have long thought to be the case anyway.

In thinking of such things, we were reminded of an article we read in the Kansas City Star. It was from a supplement on the state of Red China today. It carried an account of a visitor to the home of China's Number Two political figure, Vice Chairman Lin Piao.

The visitor reported: "Vice Chairman Lin's home is simple and severe . . . plain and ordinary and heated not by steam but with a stove burning coal. He used the same room for his bedroom and office.

"In this room there was one wooden chair for him to work on and some hard seats for his guests. On the bed were two old blankets which were neatly folded up. His desk was very simple with no table lamp. There was only a ceiling lamp. The floor had no carpet . . ."

The existence of austerity is not necessarily an indictment of luxury, but the comparison does make you wonder. What gets you is the obvious fact that we are a tremendously wealthy nation but still permit the existence of harsh economic problems.

And we complain about our standard of living even when it is among the highest in the world. What it makes you think is that if this nation and its people ever dedicated themselves to something, its achievement would be inevitable.

There is virtually nothing within the realm of reason that we could not accomplish if we really wanted to do so. But the truth is that we are seldom prepared to make any sacrifice for anything beyond our own personal welfare.

When it comes to our national and our personal goals, it is not so much what we can afford as it is what we want. That observation doesn't solve anything but it does provide a perspective of some value.

BOB CONSIDINE

Nixon Can Choose From Many Options

NEW YORK — There are more suggested ways to peace in Vietnam than there are arms of the Ho Chi Minh Trail. The President is pursuing his way, but keeping an eye cocked for something better. While not moving fast enough for the people who joined in the Moratorium Day demonstrations, he is moving too fast for his top military advisers. Who's right?

One thing is certain in the endlessly uncertain dialogue: Richard Milhous Nixon will not be hounded out of the White House by this war, as was his predecessor. He will accept an option or options that LBJ did not feel he personally could.

It is easier to discern what the President will not do than it is to predict exactly what he will.

He will pull enough troops out of Vietnam to lower the voices of the domestic doves a decible or two, and thus buy himself more time to maneuver at Paris. He will go further in the matter of withdrawals than the Chiefs of Staff advise, but hardly far enough to imperil the security of the several hundred thousand Americans who'll almost surely be in Vietnam through 1970.

He will turn a deaf ear to the advice of his fellow Republican, Senator John Tower, and other articulate hawks who believe doggedly—as did, let's say, Napoleon, Grant, Pershing and MacArthur—that there is no substitute for outright military victory if it's peace you want.

Equally articulate Senators urge the President to pack up the men and get them home a'running, and to hell with "world opinion."

The suggestion has even been made that we simply announce to the world that we won the war and then come home en masse. This was first announced in jest, of course. But it is finding supporters in the welter of confusion that surrounds this highly divisive crisis. Have we not achieved our prime purposes in Vietnam—the establishment of a strong, anti-Communist government? The training of tens of thousands of Vietnamese to defend their own country? The building of ports, bridges, roads, air strips, utilities and the stockpiling of mountains of material to win the war and support the post-war economy?

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, the President is besieged with demands and suggestions from every corner of the country and the world. He must choose the right one, or it is his political neck. He holds, as has been said, the loneliest job in the world. It has seldom if ever been lonelier. There is no way for him to pass either this chalice or the buck.

Nobody Else To Blame

Just in case it might not occur to them, city officials have nowhere to look but to themselves for the cause of the air pollution problem in Northeast Lincoln. They might be thinking the problem is caused by the Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. which is producing a large amount of waste material.

ADM, in fact, is producing waste equivalent to that which would come from a population of 25,000. Too, it is an oily waste, apparently, which is difficult to treat in the usual fashion of bacteria breakdown.

But the key to the whole thing is that waste disposal is a city responsibility. It is the city which has not assumed its responsibilities that is to blame for the odor coming from inadequate treatment of the ADM waste.

The city has piddled along for so long in the area of sewage treatment that it is disgusting. We have studied the problem until we are blue in the face and if memory serves us right, we are studying it again at this time.

The simple fact is that Lincoln's sewage treatment facilities have not been adequate for at least several decades. The city can point to a lot of problems on the subject but that is not the point. The point is that we have been woefully lacking in leadership in this important area of growth. There has not been a serious effort to solve the problem; only warnings that it exists. Maybe the ADM situation will do some good. Maybe it will move the mayor and City Council off of dead center and get the ball rolling on improvements that should have been planned a long time ago.

Black Voting Strength

The voting prowess of the southern Negro was in evidence again this week with the election of a liberal Democrat, a white man, as mayor of Atlanta, probably the most cosmopolitan and progressive capital below the Mason-Dixon line.

The black block-voting punch has been felt at other times since massive voter registration drives were initiated to give Negroes more of a political voice — but mainly in legislative contests or local elections where the candidates themselves were black or Negroes were a majority of the electorate.

Negro election successes in the north have been more dramatic and have received greater nation-wide publicity, but probably have not been as significant to the black man as his incursions into the traditional white-dominated political framework of the south.

In Atlanta, the liberal and Jewish Sam Massell, vice-mayor for eight years, won out over Republican Rodney Cook, an alderman and state legislator who carried most of the city's mainly white wards. Observers estimated that nearly 70%, or some 56,000 of the registered Negro voters turned out. Massell carried some Negro wards by about 12-1, so the black voting contribution to the winner's total 63,000 votes was obviously healthy, as he picked up only an estimated 25% of the vote in white areas.

This is not to say that whomever black voters support is the right man to be elected, regardless of past history of political repression. But as for Massell, despite a pre-election intraparty squabble, retiring Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. called the election "a great victory." Mayor Allen's Atlanta has been the nearest thing to a model of racial harmony in the deep south and for its sake we hope it will continue to be so. Likewise, we hope that the Negro uses his new-found power at the polls not as a means to perpetuate racism, but with a sense of right not previously all that visible in a white-dominated southland.

New Brandt Government Attempting To Raise West Germany's Influence In World Affairs

BONN — The formation in West Germany of a Socialist-dominated goverment is likely to prove as important a European watershed as De Gaulle's return to power in France 11 years ago.

For two decades German destinies have been guided by the conservative Catholic policies of Adenauer and his successors — either in full control or as senior coalition partners. This period saw Germany's re-establishment as a major economic force, a strong ally of the United States, a special friend of Gaullist France, and a resurgent military factor.

Nevertheless, as a new generation grew up, it complained that the Federal Republic, although it had restored national honor, self-respect and prosperity, had an inadequate voice in world affairs. The saying went: "West Germany is an economic giant but a political dwarf."

Although Bonn made various tentative efforts to strike out diplomatically in a way comparable to the commercial and banking initiatives of the Ruhr and Rhine barons, it was not notably successful. Its policy toward eastern Europe was clearly influenced by the desires of Washington and its policy toward western Europe was clearly influenced by the desires of Paris. And the rigid posture devised by Bonn's own Hallstein Doctrine seeking to isolate East Germany gradually became brittle and cracked.

Of Bonn's three previous Christian Democratic chancellors, Adenauer was the only great statesman and his impressive achievement was to lift partitioned Germany from Hitler's moral garbage can and out of the wreckage left by war. Those who succeeded him — Erhard, the colorless economic wizard, and Kiesinger, the suave politician — come from the same lesser breed that has been succeeding charismatic leaders everywhere.

Clearly the German people felt they needed a change and also clearly they didn't feel drawn by the right, having rebuffed neo-naziism. Therefore the predominantly Socialist regime must move to satisfy some of the voter's implied requirements. And since both economic and social relationships at home are stable, the likelihood is that change must inevitably show itself in policy abroad.

Because Chancellor Willy Brandt prepared for his new responsibilities as foreign minister — and his freedom of action was necessarily limited as Kiesinger's political junior — it is logical to expect he will be especially happy to supervise new diplomatic initiatives. Although he was mayor of West Berlin and knows the dangers of Communist aggression, it is reasonable to expect this mildly left-wing liberal will make friendly gestures toward Moscow.

One way of responding to recent Soviet hints that Russia also wants detente would be to sign the nuclear nonproliferation treaty which Bonn — as well as Paris — had spurned. Another, if more difficult gesture, would be to express interest in a European security pact more or less acknowledging existing frontiers — including that between East Germany and Poland. Such audacity would undoubtedly provoke complaints among many German conservatives.

While these prospects would please both Washington and Paris, it is probable that a Brandt government will be less pro French than those of his predecessors (even the distinctly non-Gaullist Erhard) and that it will also be less reluctant to let Britain into the Common Market. The trouble there is likely to be British, not German, opinion.

As the new regime consolidates its position it may show itself less eager to endorse all major U.S. diplomatic attitudes and more subject to pressures for de-emphasizing NATO's military aspects — although Brandt fully realizes his nation's integrity depends on that alliance.

Obviously the crucial factor is East Germany. Whether, after placing the final tombstone on the moribund Hallstein Doctrine, Brandt will eventually dare contemplate some form of recognition is hard to forecast.

Come what may, one can expect change both in the form and substance of Bonn's diplomacy and an attempt to raise the stature of the political dwarf to that of the economic giant.

In the republic of amputated Germany such a shift has not required actual revision of governmental statutes — as in logically more restrictive and less flexible France. But the ultimate impact on international affairs may some day prove to be comparable. De Gaulle sought for his people both independence and grandeur. Brandt is likely to seek only a greater say in the interdependence that grips the world. Fortunately, grandeur is a word still forbidden in the vocabulary of German politics.

All Facts Wanted

Crete, Neb.

In regard to your article by Dean Terrill in the Oct. 16 paper, we, a group of Doane College students, would like to respond to what we feel was a slanted report of the Doane Moratorium activities that took place on our campus Oct. 15.

The report stated, "Approximately 250 students — one third of the enrollment—witnessed these and other pokes at Vietnam policy at an enthusiastic but orderly demonstration." We would like to point out that of these 250, about one-third were openly opposed to the war, one-third were in favor of administration policy and the final third were present merely to observe.

The Rev. Cecil Williams, a San Francisco minister whose advance billing was that he had been "more than once instrumental in cooling off potentially riot-bound situations." We feel your definition of Rev. Williams as a militant conflicts with his accepted classification. Incidentally, Rev. Williams' appearance at Doane was planned for an informative religious forum series Oct. 14 to 16. It should be noted that the moratorium plans were made after announcements of Rev. Williams' visit to Doane.

A quote from a Doane student heading the ad hoc committee for the moratorium stated, "so far, however, nobody has come forth to say that they would speak in behalf of President Nixon's policy." This quote arouses curiosity in us, for had Mr. Terrill remained present for the entire program, he would have seen this statement falsified. The latter portion of the program was intended to be a question and answer session. It was at this time that Rev. Williams' position was challenged . . . Mr. Terrill, where were YOU???

When the situation began to polarize, President Philip Heckman, in an impromptu move, asked for permission to speak. His short speech pointed out to all present that at times it is necessary to question whether one should turn his back on the standard Christian ideas in order to protect his rights as an individual. Dr. Heckman's remarks earned a standing ovation from a clear majority of those present. We ask why Mr. Terrill neglected to mention these remarks in his article?

We ask that you realize that the facts given in the article do not constitute the whole truth about the Doane moratorium. The events mentioned in your article are basically true, but in reporting events of this type, in the future, we beg that you relate all the facts, not just part of them.

A GROUP OF CONCERNED DOANE STUDENTS

Editor's Note: Mr. Terrill did not stay for the entire period of the Doane moratorium because the writing deadline imposed upon him by his office would not allow it.

However, it is felt that the question and answer period could not serve to negate the statement by a moratorium committee member that no one came forth to speak in behalf of President Nixon's policy. That statement covered the formal speech making part of the meeting, not the question and answer period.

Mr. Terrill further states that he feels the story was a fair, and possibly even a conservative, reflection of the moratorium at least for the period of time he was present.

Mr. Terrill's characterization of the Rev. Cecil Williams as a "black militant" was made in consideration of the statement made by Rev. Williams. From the above letter, we fail to see any indictment of the story in the reported remarks of President Philip Heckman.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Now that everyone is over the shock that winter can come prematurely if it chooses, thoughts turn to hurrying the process of getting ready for the cold months before us. Visions of last year's snow drifts are very vivid and hopes are high that we will not have another like it.

With reports of the first frost looming before us recently, The Farmer picked the last pears from the top of the tree, climbed into the apple trees to reach the last apples and gathered green tomatoes. Apples and pears are in every container I could find and remain to be taken care of either by canning or freezing. We have given many away for an apple a day does not make a dent in the total bushels we have.

Talking to other farm women, I find they, too, picked peppers, pulled the last beets, gathered squash and pumpkins or melons. Many are making relishes with the last heads of cabbage and peppers. Others are making room in basements to store the squash and pumpkins.

I did not raise pumpkins so I purchased one at the store yesterday for a jack-o-lantern. It seems so strange to be making a funny face from a pumpkin again . . . not for myself but for a little boy of four. What seems stranger still is the fact that when I first began writing this column, I often wrote of the antics of another little boy called Blue Jeans. The little boy whom I have invited for the weekend solely for the purpose of making a jack-o-lantern is the son of Blue Jeans of years ago. Time does fly but its passing is so much more enjoyable when it can be shared with a wee one who has so much enthusiasm and generates so much laughter.

Childhood is such a happy carefree time and I am old-fashioned enough to believe many joys can be self-generated by doing with the hands the things so many people allow others to do for them. I know Little Lad and I will have much more fun making our own funny face than walking into a store and buying a plastic Jack.

When we walked into the small grocery store yesterday to make our purchase, he reached down to put his arm around the very biggest one he could see. His little arms could not get around the pumpkin. He tugged to lift it but couldn't move it an inch.

"We have to get one our size," I told him for we could never carry such a big pumpkin to the car. We walked slowly along until we found a nice round one with a four-inch stem attached securely, about six inches in diameter.

We selected that one for he showed me he could easily carry it and demonstrated by grasping the stem and carrying it to the check-out counter.

A couple of weeks ago we were awakened by our cattle bawling for their calves near the big pond where they were grazing in the lowland. It was after midnight, an hour when The Farmer couldn't do much in the pitch black night anyway and since the calves answered their mothers, we surmised it was a deer passing by or loitering nearby.

The next morning The Farmer looked toward the area of the pond and saw a number of huge white birds walking about in the water. We decided they had flown into the water enroute to the Southland during the night, which is what had disturbed the cattle.

There were thirty-five in the group and I did enjoy this rare treat. When you live near a big pond, you never know what interesting things may happen.

Life Begins At 40:

Farm Plus Trips Equal Happiness

By ROBERT PETERSON

"You quote so many sad old souls who have problems," writes Mrs. Marion Richter of Rogers City, Mich. "I suppose they make better copy than merry old souls, but I think you should know that lots of us are entirely happy with our years and the way things are going.

"My husband is a retired pattern maker. We lived in Detroit all our working years, raised a family, and lived thriftily. During those years we acquired our 120 acre farm here in northern Michigan.

"We had the farm in mind as both an investment and place to retire. Instead of wondering what we'd do in retirement, we had a definite plan. When my husband hit 65 we told our city friends goodbye, sold our home there, and moved to our wonderful farm where we built a new ranch house and two small barns. Then we settled down to a brand new life in which we're totally relaxed and do as we please. We raise goats, chickens, and geese, and make a small profit from the produce we sell. Our retirement income isn't large. But it's enough to make us feel secure and we've always got the farm to fall back on in emergencies.

"We have some camping equipment and when we feel like traveling, get in the car and start driving. We've made three trips to California the past four years, and lots of shorter journeys, enjoying every minute.

"Do we ever feel lonesome? Never — people are always around if we are always around if we want company and they're usually friendly and kind. Our children turned out fine — they're married now and treat us like VIP's when we visit them. And our grandchildren are simply great—even the teenagers.

"You often say in your column that older people should feel a sense of achievement in having reached old age. Well, we certainly feel this plus deep gratitude for the good health we enjoy. Sure, we may look old on the outside since we're in our mid 70's now. But on the inside we're as young and curious and interested in life as ever. Just thought you'd like to know."

It's great to hear from folks such as the Richters whose golden years are genuinely golden. Young couples should take a cue and chart their years in such a way that they have (a) something tangible, such as investment property, to show for their years of work, and (b) retirement routines which bring a sense of purpose and satisfaction.

Old age isn't always a blessing. Bereavements, fiancial reverse, and poor health can rob individuals of the chance to live abundantly. But happily, the great majority of us are destined to reach retirement with sufficient income for our needs and health which is good if not glowing. If in addition we harbor an optimistic, merry soul we have the makings for a really satisfying old age.

I have a $20 gold certificate found in papers left by my father. What would this be worth?
—Miss R.E.F., Geneva

ACTION LINE: As in most cases, when trying to determine the value of numismatic (coins and currency) items, one must look at the scarcity of issue and the item's condition. The certificate in your possession could have a $200 value or a $20 value. Contact a hobby shop for an evaluation of this note and find out if there is a market for it.

Why does Lincoln not participate in the annual high school marching band competition? —J.F., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Gene Stoll of the Lincoln Public Schools music department, says that question "involves weighing the educational value of preparing a single six or seven-minute performance in very stiff competition" against the cost of such a venture.

Small schools, Stoll cites, around the state, have a much longer band program than Lincoln. Lincoln begins two weeks before school starts and ends with the last football game. To compete, Stoll says, bands would have to practice all summer and the cost would be considerably higher than the present program.

Stoll also notes that smaller schools are able to establish continuity of marching from grade school up, whereas Lincoln students only begin marching in the 10th grade — 9th grade next year. Three Lincoln music instructors do participate in the competition which will be held at Pershing Auditorium Saturday, October 25 — Duane Johnson of East (contest director, by the way); Duane Schulz of Northeast and Paul Austin of Southeast; as well as Stoll.

Is there a place one can write to get a complete list of Vietnam war dead for a particular state? We are from out-of-state and since we can't keep up with our friends by newspaper stories, we would like to know what is happening to them? —K.G.E., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Department of Defense receives many such requests. Due to prohibitive costs of preparing such lists for widespread distribution, the department does not make them available to individuals. However, officials there advise ACTION LINE that casualty lists for the war current through May 1969 were published in three segments of the Congressional Record: March 25, April 3 and July 22, 1969.

Since the Congressional Record is a public document, you may purchase it by writing to: The Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Cost will vary according to size of the issue.

If you desire information about specific individuals, write the person's service branch, giving rank, full name, serial number, home of record and next of kin possible.

ACTION LINE is surprised that your hometown newspaper does not carry full information on war dead. Write that newspaper requesting it to carry such a list.

How can I apply for the Amy Loveland Award for college students interested in library work? —J.J., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Amy Loveland National Award of $1,000 was traced through the diligent efforts of Miss Kathryn Renfro, associate director of the University of Nebraska library. The annual award is made for the best personal library collected by an undergraduate student enrolled at a four-year college or university in the U.S.

The memorial — established in 1962 in honor of Amy Loveland — associate editor of Saturday Review, a judge for the Book-of-the-Month Club and member of the Women's National Book Assn. — is awarded jointly by these three organizations.

Further information and application blanks may be obtained by writing: Richard Tobin, Saturday Review, 380 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017. Good luck.

I need to have my Volkswagen inspected. Three service stations told me they won't do it. Where can I go?

I was at Lincoln High when school let out the other day. A station wagon, complete with uniformed chauffeur, picked up two girls. The white wagon, with license number 2-E8861, had a portable sign on top reading "School Bus." It went out toward the Interstate highway. —V.P., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A Lincoln Public School administration spokesman explains the wagon is one of several transportation fleet vehicles. There are a few students transported to and from the area near the Union Pacific Industrial Tract, but not enough for a full yellow school bus, so a station wagon is used. The driver is one of the school system's regular school bus drivers. He does not wear a chauffeur's uniform, but may wear matching pants and shirt with a cap.

Governor's Crank Mail Is Varied And Weird

By MICHAEL J. KAESER
United Press International

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann got a letter recently from Benjamin Franklin.

The missive came from a Canadian who said he wrote "as one of the main founders of your glorious democracy, by a past incarnation." Under the signature was the notation "formerly Benjamin Franklin."

The letter was one of hundreds which find their way into the bulging crank mail files in the governor's office. The material ranges from pencil-scrawled postcards, urging a return to the gold standard, to 30 pages of printed material on water pollution.

Much of the mail — including the note from "Franklin — has spiritual overtones, prompting a member of Tiemann's staff to observe, "there are an awful lot of religious nuts loose."

Heavenly Picture

For instance, in the file were three copies of what was said to be "the first picture of heaven taken from a flat stone upon this earth." It looked more like a closeup of a tiled floor.

One letter was signed, "personally yours with God Almighty over the whole show."

Someone else sent in a prayer chain letter which listed such names as Chicago Cubs Manager Leo Durocher and former Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

Tiemann also gets all kinds of advice on state politics.

One unsigned note from Kearney suggested, "Gov. ask the Legislature to resign."

"The real problem in this world isn't 'politics' but the drinking that has been so open in the last year or so," declared a Lincoln writer.

"Too Tricky"

And there was this warning forwarded to the governor from the State Motor Vehicles Department:

"Please have Gov. Tiemann knock the drivers test out. It's too tricky & if this isn't Communism, nothing is. We plan to riot in Lincoln and beat up on the Gov. & senators if this tricky stuff goes on. We plan to turn Democrats. There is no freedom here any more."

"Get that Winchester out, and aim one barrel at the senators and one at the truck lobby," wrote a Hubbard man.

"You're fortunate that the schools in Nebraska don't turn out many educated pupils," a postcard from Omaha said, "for a more intelligent populace would run you and that bunch of pirates you call a Legislature right out of the state."

A Kansas resident told the governor he did not enjoy driving across the Cornhusker state.

Big Hole Suggested

"Do something to improve your state, blow it up or something," the Kansas said. "The hole would attract tourists and there would be something to see."

Tiemann also has received mailings of right-wing literature, a 16-page "open letter to the Queen of England," a five-page petition which had no signatures, a letter with 8 cents postage due, a note from a "Grand Prince" at Fremont, and an appeal from a Detroit woman who asked to be "removed" from Michigan because she was "surrounded by Iowans."

The governor's special counsel, Robert Barnett, said some of the wildest material ever received dealt with daylight saving time.

"One woman wrote that her garden was growing fast enough and she didn't know what she would do if it got another hour of daylight," Barnett said. "Someone else said that 'God created the heavens, the earth and central standard time."

A postcard from Crete was addressed to "Gov. Filbert Tiemann."

A spokesman for the governor said such a "mistake" was common after Tiemann referred to Wallace as a nut.

The crank mail comes from all over the country and as far away as Korea. Nearly all of it is marked "personal" but little ever reaches Tiemann.

Motorists' Mini-Quiz

Questions

A — What should a driver do if he has a blow-out or flat tire while driving at normal or high speed?

B — What should a driver do when the back end of his car suddenly starts to skid sideways?

Answers

A — Don't panic. Don't apply brakes since that would throw the car out of control. Remove foot from accelerator to gradually reduce speed, remain on straight course until it is safe to pull off the road.

B — Turn the front wheels in the same direction the rear end is skidding. Don't apply brakes.

Tax Reform Might Cut Philanthropist Giving

Washington (UPI) — The nation's leading philanthropists — those who average giving away $1 million every three years — would cut their gifts in half if the House tax reform bill becomes law, a Senate committee was told Wednesday.

Peter G. Peterson, head of a private commission studying foundations, asked the finance committee to weaken provisions in the House bill intended to crack down on tax abuses by foundations.

Peterson, chairman of Bell & Howell Co. of Chicago, said his commission surveyed 85 of the nation's biggest givers — persons who had given away an average of $375,000 a year for the past five years, chiefly to foundations and frequently to foundations they had created.

Ninety per cent of them would diminish their gifts if the bill passes, he said, and the size of their gifts would have been cut by an average of 50%.

And if all tax incentives for giving to charity were eliminated from the tax laws, they would cut their gifts by 75%, Peterson said.

The bill would levy a 7.5% tax on a foundation's investment income, require them to give away a sum equal to 5% of their assets each year, prohibit "self-dealing" transactions between foundations and their founders, prohibit foundations to control more than 20% of a corporation's stock, and bar them from engaging in political activity.

The chief reason persons establish foundations rather than give their money directly to charity, Peterson said, is that by giving stocks to companies they control to foundations they control, they retain control of the company.

But Peterson urged that foundations be required to disclose more information about their wealth, their payrolls and their activities.

He said "perhaps over a billion dollars annually" is lost to society, through the services of foundations, because they are unaggressive in their investment policies. They turn over their portfolios at the rate of 1 to 2% a year, he said, compared to 10 to 20% by other stock holding companies.

Biafra Suggests New Food Flight Proposals

The New York Times

By CHARLES MOHR

Lagos — The possibility that Red Cross mercy flights into starving Biafra might resume seemed to diminish rapidly Wednesday as Biafra put forth new proposals on how the food shipments should be conducted.

Biafra Radio said it rejected the terms of an agreement on inspected daylight relief flights recently signed by the federal Nigerian government, its enemy in the civil war, and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC).

The broadcast said Biafra had proposed that the ICRC should resume night-time flights and should also hand over its food stocks and facilities to other agencies willing to run the risk of having their planes shot down by Nigeria.

Defiance Sought

In effect, Biafra is asking the ICRC to defy the Nigerian blockade on uninspected flights and had set forth new proposals which are certain to be rejected by the Nigerian government.

Wednesday's broadcast gave the official Biafran account of three days of negotiations in Biafra between the rebel regime's officials and a delegation from the ICRC.

The Biafrans asked the delegation, which left Biafra Tuesday, to ask Red Cross headquarters in Geneva to consider a four-point proposal.

The first proposal was that the Red Cross should resume night flights immediately "even if only in a skeleton or very limited form."

Stopped June 5

The Red Cross night flights were stopped, except for two special shipments, after a Nigerian jet fighter shot down a four-engine transport chartered by the ICRC on June 5.

Some food, occasionally amounting to up to 200 tons a night, has continued to reach Biafra in planes chartered by Joint Church Aid, a grouping of church relief organizations. Starvation, however has mounted, according to reports from Biafra.

The Biafrans also suggested the ICRC should get an "independent agency" to undertake the relief flights to ICRC relief workers in the field in Biafra. The third proposal involved a call for a one-week truce in the civil war during which a massive day and night relief operation should be launched.

Finally, the ICRC was asked to hand over its relief materials and facilities to another agency willing to use "existing" arrangements to fly them to Biafra.

Interim Measure

These proposals were described as an interim measure to be undertaken pending final agreement on daylight relief flights.

The possibility that agreement on such daylight flights would be reached seemed very dim, however.

The ICRC and the Nigerian government recently signed an agreement on the procedures for relief flights. The agreement stipulated that the flights would be "without prejudice" to Nigerian military operations and that all cargoes could be inspected by Nigerian officials both at foreign air fields and at Lagos.

Biafra rejected this plan and reaffirmed its rejection again Wednesday.

Opening lead — six of spades.

You can't play bridge successfully by rote. General rules are extremely helpful, no doubt, but what counts in the end is how well you play, not how many rules you know. Each hand is an entity unto itself, and it is well to remember that a rule is your servant and not your master.

For example, take this hand where declarer must be right on his toes to make the contract. His first challenge comes at trick one after West leads a spade.

Ordinarily, declarer would play low from dummy to assure himself a spade trick against any combination of the cards. But if he follows that rule in the present case, South is bound to finish down one.

Instead, declarer should go up with the king, even though this play would result in his making no spade tricks if East has the ace and West the queen.

There is, of course, a good reason for going up with the king in this daring fashion. Declarer requires a successful diamond finesse to make the contract, and playing the king of spades provides him with the only legitimate chance for an entry to dummy to take the finesse.

Once the king holds, South can be sure of making nine tricks if East has the king of diamonds. But once again declarer must be careful to make the right play or he will be defeated.

He should lead the nine of diamonds at trick two and take a finesse. When it wins he can then lead the queen and in this way trap the king to make four diamond tricks and the contract.

If declarer makes the mistake of leading the queen at trick two, East can defeat him by playing low on the trick. South can no longer make four diamond tricks against proper defense and he must eventually go down one.

More Security With FALSE TEETH
While Eating, Talking

Don't be so afraid that your false teeth will come loose or drop just at the wrong time. For more security and more comfort, just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds both uppers and lowers firmer longer. Makes eating easier. FASTEETH is alkaline. No gummy, pasty taste! Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. 'Tis A Busy Weekend For Suburbia

Suburbia plans for the weekend are centered around the social events preceding and following all that activity that will take place at Memorial Stadium where Nebraska will host Oklahoma State at, of course, a football game. And we're sorry to say that the famous Nebraska hospitality ends abruptly when the game begins.

But win or lose, all will be gracious hospitality the remainder of the game weekend, and in addition to houseguests, we have a birthday celebration to mention.

Beginning our morning news with Southbrook Summit residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Fleecs and their children, Jeff, Jennifer and Jay. We have learned they will be entertaining a houseful of guests, all of whom are loyal Nebraska fans. Arriving for a Friday-through-Sunday visit will be Mrs. Fleecs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McPherson of North Platte, and Mr. Fleecs' brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fleecs and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fleecs, all of Sutherland.

While other suburban residents are absorbed in football this weekend, young Michael Otte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Otte, will be busy with (to him) a much more important occasion Saturday afternoon. The important event will be a party in observance of his sixth birthday anniversary, and welcoming the 16 guests who will attend the celebration. The party will be held at the Eastborough home of Michael's parents.

The party's conclusion will not mean the end of the birthday festivies, however, because Michael's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Otte, will be visiting on Sunday, Oct. 26, to share in a family celebration and dinner that evening.

Friday evening, Oct. 17, Eastborough residents Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degenhardt and their children traveled to Crete where they attended the baptism of Mr. and Mrs. Degenhardt's godchild. Miss Laura Ann Degenhardt, daughter of Mr. Degenhardt's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Degenhardt of Crete.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degenhardt, Dan, Joan, Alice, David, Carol, Richard and Mary Pat, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Degenhardt and Laura were dinner guests at the Crete home of the baby's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Therese Degenhardt.

Saturday, Oct. 18, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eastman and Penn, Kerry and Paula Ann, went for an afternoon autumn outing in the woods near Wagon Train Lake. The purpose of the afternoon's activities was to gather wood for the fireplace in their Eastborough home, but everyone enjoyed the excursion so much they almost forgot to pick up any wood. We don't want to forget to mention the other member of the family, Topper, the family's Boxer dog, who had more fun than all the rest of the family combined.

A visitor in the South Hills home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stephens has been Mrs. Stephens' grandmother, Mrs. Louella Smith of Central City, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stephens since Saturday, Oct. 18. Mrs. Smith plans to return to Central City on Sunday, Oct. 26, after thoroughly enjoying the visit with her great-grandchildren, Joy, 11; Carol, nine; Dan, eight; and Tom, five.

Abby: let it go!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married in November and my problem is the selection of bridesmaids that his fiancee has made. Abby, she is having FOUR bridesmaids — all lovely young women, in various stages of pregnancy.

One will be six months along (she is very definitely showing now). Two will be in their seventh month, and the other had better have her overnight case packed and in the car.

The wedding will be one of those fancy church affairs where the wedding party walks down the aisle, and I am wondering what that bridal party will look like with every bridesmaid so obviously heavy with child. They are all married, so there is nothing wrong with it, but why must they be bridemaids?

Is there some diplomatic way I can talk my son's fiancee out of this? Or should I let it go?

WONDERING IN ATLANTA

DEAR WONDERING: A bride selects her dearest friends for her bridesmaes. Let it go.

DEAR ABBY: We are two teen-age girls who would like to air a complaint for most teen-age baby-sitters.

In our town, baby sitting pays 50 cents an hour. This is the same pay our mother's received when THEY baby-sat as teen-agers. As you know, the cost of living has gone up considerably since then.

We are expected to be mother, father, cook, referee, nursemaid and playmate.

We think the pay should be raised to 75 cents an hour before midnight and $1.00 afterwards. How do we go about getting better pay?

UNDERPAID SITTER

DEAR UNDERPAID: Refuse to sit! (Sitters can hardly stage a "sit in") Sitters of the world, unite! If you get a boot in the bustle, all you can lose is your seating capacity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LINDA: Send the DEAR DOTTY letter back to your sailor and tell him that your name is LINDA, not DOTTY. Either he has a peculiar sense of humor or he sent DOTTY a DEAR LINDA letter. In any case, he sounds like a wolf in ship's clothing!

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 697, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dancing Club Greets New Members

It was an evening of "Magic" for the members of the Fifty-Fifty Club who gathered Tuesday evening at the Elks Club for their October dinner and evening of dancing.

Introduced to the club were new members couples, who are pictured (from the left) Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. R D. Macey, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius E Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Willard J. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mapes and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith. New members not incuded in the picture are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Pinkerton.

In charge of party arrangements for the evening were the new officers of the club including Mr. and Mrs. Butler Isaman, co-presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Clair Shuman, first vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Galen Fritchie, second vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heiman, secretary-treasurer; and advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pease and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Loudon.

Autumn Wedding

The marriage of Mrs. Nina Flora Oglesby of White Plains, Ky., to Clarence S. Kittinger of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19, at White Plains. The lines of the 2:30 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Samuel A. Kittinger of Bremen, Ky., retired Baptist minister who was officiating at his 555th wedding ceremony.

Atending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Gaithel Kittinger of Greenville, Ky.

Following a wedding reception for members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Kittinger left for a wedding trip to Omaha and Lincoln, after which they will make their home in White Plains.

Educated in Lincoln, where he made his home for 35 years, Mr. Kittinger has been living in Omaha for the past 30 years, and is an active member of American Legion Post No. 3 in Lincoln.

Extension Club Guest

Mrs. J. Dexter Haws was a guest of the Odds And Ends Extension Club at the group's October meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Val Kuska.

Mrs. Harry Weakly was assisting hostess, and the program on "Fabrics", was presented by Mrs. Adolph Peeks and Mrs. H. E. Huston, who illustrated their demonstration with pictures.

Named new officers of the club for 1970 were Mrs. W. E. Lyness, president; Mrs. E. M. Jeffery, vice president; and Mrs. Phillip Henderson, secretary-treasurer.

The November meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Adolph Peeks, will feature a "show and tell" program.

NWU Coed, Bride

At a double ring ceremony solemnized on Friday afternoon, Oct. 17, Miss Penelope Dee Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Burgess of West Des Moines, Iowa, became the bride of John L. Kunkel, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kunkel of Lincoln The Rev. Allen D. Polen read the lines of the 2 o'clock service at the Indian Heights Methodist Church in Overland Park, Kan., in the presence of family members and a small group of friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Torstenson of Des Moines.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Michael M. Burgess in Leawood, Kan., and following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kunkel will live in Lincoln, at 3328 Kingsley.

Both are students at Nebraska Wesleyan University, where the bride is a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Debbie Reynold's Mink Warmed Star Editor At California's Pool-Side Fashion Parade

BY NELLE GREER
The Lincoln Star Woman's Editor

Beverly Hills — Dining at the home of Debbie Reynolds and keeping out the chill air of a California evening wrapped in one of the motion picture and television star's mink coats, was something of a new experience. But it did happen.

Dinner was served on the vast U-shaped patio which surrounded the swimming pool. The dining area had been canopied and made quite beautiful with gold and crystal pedestal chandeliers, and the tables were centered with attractive arrangements of green grapes and white roses. It was so chilly, however, that sweaters were passed out to the guests who included women's editors and fashion writers from Baltimore, Oklahoma City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, various cities in Florida, New Orleans, plus many others and, of course, from Lincoln, Neb. It was the Lincoln, Neb. woman s editor who was the envy of all of the others because of the mink which, we think, was due to a man from the Dean Martin show who seemed to feel that the gal from Lincoln was his responsibility.

The patio was the setting for what has probably the most beautiful of the California Fashion Creators shows. The Helen Rose line was presented, and Helen Rose did the commentary herself. Almost everyone knows that Miss Rose has designed for many of the great movie stars of the past, and now has television stars who must look as beautiful in their clothes as possible. One former movie and now television star, of course, is the minute Debbie Reynolds who wears a size one.

Helen Rose is a firm believer in the theory that every woman should be beautiful — and young, regardless of age. Her designs are beautiful and can be worn by the young and the older generations provided they are on the willowy side and have a waistline.

One of the applause winners was a white peau de soie ball gown with a halter neck. The bodice was sculptured and the long, full skirt was composed of soft folds. Then there was a lovely and young white organza, floor-length, full-skirted gown, the white organza trimmed in the lime tone. The long-sleeved, fitted bodice had a high-rise waist line, and embroidery patterned the skirt above the hemline. This gown was modeled by Debbie Reynolds, who appeared once more wearing a soft, white silk jersey, high of neck and long of sleeves.

Popular with California designers is the feminine pants-dress that goes from patio to party. Heavily fringed at the bodice and cuffs is this multicolored, zig-zag print in silk from the Blackwell collection.

As a matter of fact Helen Rose goes in strongly for the long sleeve whether it be for cocktail dress-ups, or for daytime. Chiffon was the fabric leader in the cocktail section. There was a beautiful brown jersey chiffon, soft, swirling and altogether lovely. The white lace over flesh tone was exquisite, as was the navy and white lace costume.

Miss Rose showed pants, but they were far from the usual variety. She calls these "fun clothes." They had long, swinging cover-ups that were dazzling. There were the white silk jersey pants, for example, covered with a long coat of coral, turquoise and gold embroidery. There was a white and silver lace pant gown worn under a long turquoise wool coat, and another of the pant costumes was of white crepe, with turquoise sash and matching scarf.

The Rose daytime collection was as fascinating as her dressups, but before we talk about them we certainly want to mention our favorie party gown. It was of chiffon in a very beautiful 'California sand' shade, and was designed with a high neck, long sleeves, long torso and a billowing skirt.

For daytime — a costume suit, jacket and dress, of embroidered linen; a long, red multi-buttoned, in-at-the-waist jacket worn over a muted black and white print frock; a skirt-length coat of tangerine wool over a print dress; print jacket costumes, tailored, slender, and each with its own print beret.

And by the way — does everyone know that Debbie Reynolds' husband, Harry Karl resided in Grand Island, Neb., when he was a young lad? He did.

Bridal Courtesies And Attendants

The series of prenuptial courtesies for Miss Juanita Deloris Schroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Schroeder, whose marriage to William Charles Pearson will be an event of Sunday, Nov. 9, began Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19, when Miss Cynthia Hickman and Mrs. Raymond Hickman, Jr., entertained at the home of Mrs. Hickman. During the afternoon, the guests presented Miss Schroeder with a personal shower.

For the 2 o'clock afternoon ceremony, the bride-elect has named Miss Cynthia Hickman as her maid of honor, and her sisters, Miss Nancy Schroeder of Portland, Tenn., and Miss Judy Schroeder will be the bridesmaids. Miss Lisa Hehn will be the flower girl.

Lighting the chancel candles in the Piedmont Park Church will be Miss Terri Schroeder, Montpelier, N.D., and the bride-elect's sister, Miss Tammi Schroeder.

Serving his brother as best man will be Richard Pearson, and Charles Lawrence and Doug Eszler will be the groomsmen. Wallace Schroeder and Virgil Schroeder will seat the guests. Doug Allen will serve as Bible boy.

Revealing plans this morning for a November wedding is Miss Rebecca Ann Milana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Milana, who has chosen Sunday, Nov. 9, for her marriage to Michael R. Rohnert.

The service will be solemnized at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Cathedral of the Risen Christ. For her honor attendant, Miss Milana has named her sister, Miss Kathy Milana.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Rosie Samek, Miss Kathy Childs, Miss Sandy Mathewson and the bride-elect's sister, Miss Mary Milana. Mrs. Scott Dosek will be the bridesmatron.

Miss Molly Milana and Miss Michaela Milana will attend their sister as flower girls.

Serving Mr. Rohnert as best man will be Scott Dosek, and the groomsmen will be John Kuchta, Charles Renter, James Millard, Terry Dalton and the bridegroom-elect's brother, Mark Rohnert. Seating the guests will be Ron Shibata and Steve Copple.

The popular bride-to-be was the guest of honor Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Clyde Moon and Mrs. August Kolb entertained at the home of Mrs. Moon. During the evening the 25 guests presented Miss Milana with a miscellaneous shower.

Also entertaining in courtesy to the bride-elect will be Mrs. Scott Dosek and Miss Rosie Samek who will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Dosek on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26. Their guests for the afternoon will present a personal shower to Miss Milana.

PEO Chapter

The members of Chapter, K, PEO, will meet Saturday afternoon, Oct. 25, at the home of Mrs. Florence Bates, 1812 G. The program for the meeting, which will begin at 2 o'clock, will include a study of the constitution and by-laws of the chapter.

BPW Anniversary

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is observing the 50th anniversary of its founding during this week, Oct. 19-25. The organization was established in 1919 with the goal of helping its members achieve high standards in the business and professional fields, as well as in their lives as citizens of the United States.

The national federation is composed of approximately 180,000 members, and clubs operate in every Congressional district, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

During its 50-year history, the organization has worked for the accomplishment of many goals of major importance to women in the United States.

Three chapters of the international organization are active in Lincoln: the Lincoln BPW Club, the Lincoln Axis Club, and the Capitol BPW Club.

Bill Places New Limits On Campaign Costs

Washington (AP) — A bill to put new limits on federal election campaign spending was introduced in congress Wednesday by Nebraska Rep. Glenn Cunningham.

In announcing the bill, Rep. Cunningham, a Republican, called the present law "outdated, unrealistic and inadequate." He said there is "general disregard for its purpose."

The measure limits a candidate's spending to 25 cents per person in his district.

Any individual could give only $5,000 to a House or Senate candidate, up to $10,000 to a presidential or vice presidential candidate, and a total of not more than $50,000 in any election.

Current Limits

The present law sets a $5,000 contribution limit per political committee, but there is no limit on the number of committees.

A Federal Elections Commission would be created to enforce the law's provisions.

The Nebraska Republican's bill also makes a candidate responsible for all contributions and expenses in his behalf.

Every political committee which supported a candidate would have to report its expenditures publicly.

Use of campaign funds for personal expenses, except for travel between the candidate's home area and Washington, would be prohibited.

Cunningham said the effect of this bill would be to "reduce the advantage of the wealthy in seeking public office, prevent the appearance of undue influence on officeholders by heavy contributors, and protect the integrity of the election process."

McLish Replacing Jack Anderson At NSEA Meet

Sidney (AP) — Rod McLish, Washington, chief commentator for Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., is scheduled to speak at a District 6 Nebraska State Education Association convention in Sidney Thursday.

He is to take the place of national political columist Jack Anderson, who was scheduled to speak in Sidney Thursday and to another NSEA district convention in Kearney Friday.

Earlyon Lamberty, Lincoln, associate executive secretary of the NSEA, said Anderson asked to be relieved from the speaking engagements because of the press of other commitments in Washington.

Anderson had agreed to speak at the conventions after Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, the original speaker, became ill and cancelled his engagement.

Laborite Popularity Up

London (AP) — A Gallup poll published in the Daily Telegraph shows the ruling Labor Party, regaining between-elections popularity, has reduced the Conservatives' edge from 9.5 to 2%, the lowest in two years.

Wilson Confident Of Britain's Economic Growth

London (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson painted a glowing picture of Britain's growing economic strength Wednesday night. He said this island kingdom could "stand on our feet outside Europe" if the Common Market doors remain barred.

The price of remaining outside the European Economic Community would be heavy for Britain, Wilson said, but heavier for Europe "because Britain's industry and Britain's developing vigor can be a source of strength to Europe as a whole."

The prime minister spoke at the annual dinner of the National Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Curator Will Study Bertrand And Artifacts

Albuquerque N.M. (AP) — An expert on preservation and restoration of archaeological artifacts has been chosen by the National Park Service to develop methods to preserve a 19th century steamboat uncovered in an old channel of the Missouri River.

Ron Switzer, a curator of an anthropology museum at the University of New Mexico, will prepare a report on how to preserve the steamboat Bertrand, and its cargo of more than 2 million items.

The steamboat sank near Blair, Neb., in 1865. No lives were lost, although the boat went under in 15 minutes.

Experts say it was quickly silted over, which has preserved the boat and its cargo until its recent recovery.

Switzer will spend two or three weeks at the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge near Blair studying the boat.

Because the artifacts on the boat have been under water and mud so long, Switzer said, preserving them in dry air will be almost impossible. They would disintegrate very quickly.

Methods must be found to get around this, Switzer said.

Prison Diplomas

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's three prisons gave 119 inmates the equivalency of high school diplomas in 1968.

Dong Visits Peking

Tokyo (UPI) — Hanoi Radio has reported arrival in Peking of North Vietnamese Premier Pam Van Dong for a "friendly visit." The broadcast said Dong and his party were greeted at the airport by Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai and other high-ranking Peking officials.

We just turned coffee-making upside down!

Most flavor from every coffee bean— most flavor from every cup.

We've actually found a way to get the most out of our coffee beans, so you get the most flavor out of every cup. How? It's all in the way we roast our coffee. Upside down.

The old way—You see, most coffee companies treat the different kinds of coffee beans that go into a coffee blend as if they were all alike. They blend all the beans first, then roast them at the same temperature for the same length of time. Blend and roast. Trouble is all these beans are not alike. They take to heat differently. And as a result, a lot of that good coffee flavor is lost by under-roasting. Or over-roasting.

Blend and Roast

Roast and Blend

The new upside down way—So we've just turned our coffee making upside down. We roast first, then blend. We roast each type of bean at its own particular temperature to bring out its own full flavor and aroma. Then we blend them together. The result is well worth the effort. Because now we're able to get the most out of every coffee bean. And so now you get the most flavor out of every cup of Butter-Nut. Try this new Butter-Nut Roast & Blend. We think you'll flip.

'Zodiac' Converses With Lawyer Belli

San Francisco (AP) — With police in the role of television producer, a man who called himself the killer, Zodiac, made a starting series of telephone calls to a live television talk show Wednesday and told noted attorney Melvin Belli, "I don't want to be hurt."

For two hours as thousands listened, the man who said he was the killer of five persons in the San Francisco Bay area made over a dozen calls to KGO-TV to mutter in staccato bursts to Belli and the show's host, Jim Dunbar.

Belli and Dunbar, promising the calls would not be traced, prodded the man with talk about the gas chamber, illness, promises of fair treatment. Belli promised to represent "Zodiac" as a client.

Meeting Set Up

In talk off and on the camera, Belli and the man set up a secret meeting.

Belli waited at the rendezvous point for 45 minutes but no one showed up.

A policeman took a 2 a.m. call from the man who said he was Zodiac. The man demanded to talk to Belli or another well-known attorney, F. Lee Bailey.

David M. Sacks, general manager of KGO-TV and a vice president of the American Broadcasting Co., said the station was contacted by police, and it was agreed to pre-empt the regular Dunbar program and clear all its telephone lines for "Zodiac" only.

Legitimacy Question

Police, who have received hundreds of false tips and crank calls on the Zodiac case, could not say whether calls were legitimate or a hoax.

Dunbar's show started at 7 a.m. "Zodiac's" first call arrived at 7:14 during a commercial.

"Did you hear me?" said Belli.

"Yes, I did," the voice said, hanging up.

At one point he ordered Bellie to meet him atop the Fairmont Hotel on Nob Hill, insisting "Come without anyone or else I'll jump."

"What do you want?" Belli asked.

Fears Injury

"I don't want to be hurt," the caller said.

"You need help," said Belli. "Are you worried that you'll be locked up — the gas chamber?"

"Are you medically ill?" asked Dunbar.

"Yes, I'm sick. I have headaches," the man replied.

Talk got around to fear of the gas chamber, and Belli told the man he would try to talk to the district attorney to see what kind of arrangement could be made.

Executions Suspended

"No one has gone to the gas chamber in years," Belli said.

The last California execution was in April 1967.

In one conversation, the caller, after mentioning the headaches, suddenly ended the call by saying: "I don't want to give myself up. I want to kill those kids."

This was a reference to a letter sent the San Francisco Chronicle last week in which the writer police handwriting experts said was Zodiac threatened that his next victims would be a busload of school children.

Biggest Lutheran Denomination Rejects Black Manifesto

New York (AP) — The leadership of the country's biggest Lutheran denomination announced Wednesday it rejects as unacceptable the "political philosophy" of James Forman's Black Manifesto.

The 33-member executive council of the Lutheran Church in America — LCA — adopted a five-point resolution turning down a money demand from Forman.

A spokesman said the council acted last Friday at its first meeting since Forman taped a copy of his manifesto last May to the doors at LCA headquarters here.

"The political philosophy expressed in the Black Manifesto is unacceptable," said the resolution in the name of the 3.2-million-member denomination. "One cannot separate the fundamental philosophy of the organization from its program."

The Forman document had violently attacked American institutions as racist, then demanded $500 million from organized religions as "reparations" for past Negro slavery. The money was to be used to fund self-help black programs listed by the Black Economic Development Conference — BEDCO. The figure has since been raised to $3 billion.

The LCA council said "serious consideration" would be given over the next few months to developing financial programs to help minority groups. But it stated that denominational funds "ought not be given to BEDCO" or any other organization with similar tactics.

"We believe it is confusing to enter into discussion of the concept of reparations," the resolution said.

Forman five months ago demanded $50 million from "the Lutheran Church," without distinguishing among the three major Lutheran denominations in the United States.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, most conservative of the three, has 2.8 million members. The moderate American Lutheran Church has 2.5 million members. The LCA, the largest, is considered the most liberal in theology and social outlook.

Seale Celebrates Birthday By Blasting Judge

Chicago (UPI) — Black Panther leader Bobby Seale celebrated his birthday Wednesday by calling the "Chicago Eight" trial a "railroad operation," accusing the judge and a prosecutor of being racists and branding a U.S. Marshal a "pig."

Co-defendants of the Panther national chairman threw the courtroom of U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman into turmoil by trying to present Seale with a cake on his 33rd birthday.

The judge and a cordon of seven U.S. Marshals barred the cake from the courtroom. A marshal snatched the cake from the defendants.

Hoffman, appearing furious much of the day, repeatedly reprimanded Seale for his conduct, warned him his outbursts were "contumacious" and said he would be "dealt with at the appropriate time."

Most Negroes

Seale and seven other men are on trial on charges of conspiring to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. The largest number of Negro spectators so far — about 20 — showed up for "Bobby Seale Day."

When a marshal removed one spectator for refusing to stand as Hoffman entered the room, Seale snapped: "You're a pig for kicking him out." The blacks in the spectator section chorused "right on," a New Left cheer of encouragement.

Defense attorney William Kunstler asked Hoffman to allow the other defendants to present a birthday cake to Seale in the courtroom "because there is no other way of getting it to him." Seale is in custody on a murder charge.

"I wouldn't even let anyone bring me a birthday cake in here," Hoffman said.

The seven other defendants queued up outside the courtroom — Yippie leader Jerry Rubin holding the cake — and tried to march in.

'Cake-Napper'

When one marshal grabbed the cake from Rubin, Yippie leader Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, shouted "cake-napper" at the guard.

Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis, another defendant, darted into the courtroom and called to Seale: "They've arrested your cake."

"You can jail a cake," Seale responded loudly, "but you can't jail a revolution."

Blacks cheered "right on!" Hoffman threatened to clear the courtroom. Seale turned to the blacks and said:

"All right, brothers, I say you can be quiet."

Hoffman told Seale, "I give the orders around here," and Seale replied: "Well, I'm sorry, Judge. They don't take orders from a racist judge."

Earlier Seale stood, pointed his finger at Hoffman and Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard G. Schultz and denounced them in angry tirades.

Fruitless Attempts

His first outburst of the day followed the latest of many fruitless attempts by Seale to win the right to defend himself during the illness of San Francisco attorney Charles R. Garry, who the Black Panther leader insists is his only lawyer.

William Kunstler, the chief defense attorney in court, asked Hoffman for permission to withdraw as Seale's attorney of record, saying "I have an obligation under the canons of legal ethics to honor Mr. Seale's request."

Seale tried to argue in favor of Kunstler's motion. When Hoffman ordered him to sit down and be quiet, Seale pointed a finger at the judge and said:

"They jack you up there and get you to say these rotten things so you can take away my right to defend myself. It's a railroad operation from Nixon on down and they've got you in on it."

Hoffman denied the motion. He also overrode defense objections to admission into evidence of a picture of a young Negro — wearing a button with a clenched black fist on it — which occasioned a Seale attack on Schultz.

Schultz said the young man in the picture was the unidentified youth who, according to two prosecution witnesses, approached Davis in Grant Park during convention week tension and said he wanted to start "a revolution."

The prosecutor said the youth had "a black power symbol on his shirt." Seale leaped to his feet..

"That's not a black power symbol," he shouted at Schultz. "It's a power-to-the-peoole symbol. And you've just made another racist statement."

Schultz, obviously angry, strode toward the bench and told Hoffman: "This man has repeatedly called me a racist."

"Yes you are," Seale shouted. "Yes you are, Dick Schultz."

Consumer Affairs Message Weakened By White House

The New York Times

Washington — A consumer affairs message that promises to disappoint advocates of strong legislative and administrative action will be sent to Congress by President Nixon. It could possibly go to Congress next week.

The text of the message was drafted at a series of White House conferences in which Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs, was overruled on at least one key issue.

She advocated legislation to provide broad-range legal redress for consumers through class-action suits in federal courts.

Only 7 Types

But the bill prepared by her office was rewritten to permit class actions, or group suits, by consumers only for seven specified types of fraud, deception or unfair trade practices.

In addition to limited class-action legislation, the message calls for the following:

—Conversion of Mrs. Knauer's office into a permanent agency by act of Congress but without any new authority.

—Revival of the dormant office of consumer counsel in the Justice Department. The office is to be "upgraded," administration sources said, by appointing a counsel with the title of assistant attorney general.

—Legislation to broaden the Federal Trade Commission's authority to seek injunctions against unfair or deceptive trade practices.

No Big Change Seen

While President Nixon has not approved the program in final form and detail, knowledgeable informants predicted that he would make no major changes.

Mrs. Knauer had an appointment with him late Wednesday. It was uncertain whether she urged him to strengthen the proposed class action legislation or revise the message in other respects.

She was not available for comment afterward. However, she declined earlier to say whether her recommendations had been iverruled in the White House staff conferences, which ended Tuesday night, or to answer other questions. She said: "I am smiling."

Disappointed

Other administration sources said she was disappointed but not disconsolate.

Mrs. Knauer announced last August that the administration favored legislation to permit consumer class action suits against manufacturers and merchants for the broad range practices defined as unfair or deceptive by administrative and judicial decisions under the Federal Trade Commission act.

As rewritten, the administration bill would not only restrict class actions to certain types of deception but would also require plaintiffs to show that deliberate or reckless conduct was involved or that unfair advantage was taken of consumers' lack of knowledge, ability, experience or capacity.

One official who participated in the White House debate over the bill called the rewritten version "a much watered-down substitute which neither any legitimate businessman or thief need have any fear of."

Many states now have class-action laws designed to allow a consumer or a group with similar grievances to file suit for damages on behalf of all persons affected by illegal acts or practices specified in the suit.

Effect Limited

But the effect is limited by restrictive provisions in many of the state laws. The New York law, for example, requires a unity of interest among members of a class of complainants.

Jonathan C. Rose, a young lawyer, was in charge of the White House staff conferences.

An administration official said Rose and the Commerce Department opposed Mrs. Knauer's draft of the class action bill on the ground that it would subject legitimate businesses to harassment, with many suits filed on technicalities, often with the purpose of effecting out-of-court settlements.

The Justice Department was said to have reservations on the ground that the federal courts might be clogged with class action litigation.

U.N. To Protest N. Korean Killing Of 4 Americans

Seoul (UPI) — The Korean Military Armistice Commission will meet Thursday at Panmunjom, apparently to receive a United Nations command protest over a North Korean ambush in which four American soldiers were killed.

The command gave no reason for the meeting in announcing it but earlier had expressed intent to protest the ambush before the commission.

The bodies of the four Americans were flown to the United States Wednesday. They were killed last Saturday when North Korean infiltrators ambushed their truck in the western sector of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea.

The four were Staff Sgt. James R. Grissiner of Wooster, Ohio; Spec. 4 Charles E. Taylor Jr. of Reedsport, Ore.; Spec. 4 Jack L. Morris of Boone, Iowa, and Pfc. William E. Grimes of Salinas, Calif.

Bertrand, Lyons Couples Honored

Kearney — Mr and Mrs. Everette Waters of Bertrand and Mr. and Mrs Dick Middendorf of Lyons were honored in Kearney for their 20-year service as publishers and editors respectively, of the Nebraska Rural Letter Carriers' Association newspaper.

The couples were honored at the association's seventh annual booster meeting.

Bank Allowance On Student Loans Set

Washington (AP) — Banks will be entitled to a special allowance on federally guaranteed student loans to meet higher interest rates under a bill signed into law Wednesday by President Nixon.

The allowance, which could amount to as much as three per cent, will be paid in addition to the seven per cent interest fixed by law for the guaranteed loan program.

Under the program, the government guarantees repayment of the loan and pays the full interest charges for students from families with annual incomes under $15,000 a year while they are in college.

Nixon promised the banks last August the legislation would be forthcoming in order to get them to make loans for the current college semester. When the prime interest went to 8½% earlier in the year, the loan program sagged.

The amount of the allowance will be set by the secretary of health, education and welfare on the basis of market conditions and will be adjusted quarterly.

Congress added to the legislation authorizations for $140 million more than Nixon requested for three other student aid programs during the current fiscal year.

The bill boosts authorized spending for direct loans under the national defense education act, for federal grants to needy students and for payment to students for work done on campus.

Most Were Radicals?

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — U.S. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, said that most of the organizers of the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium Day belonged to a "galaxy of who's who in the radical life today."

Agriculture Department Going Out Of Golf Course Loan Business

Washington (UPI) — The Nixon administration has decided to abolish a controversial program of government-insured loans for golf courses, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The Agriculture Department program received wide attention as a result of published reports about a pending loan to a golf club near Tupelo, Miss.

"The golf courses are being phased out," said James V. Smith, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration.

No More

The FHA has made about 500 loans for golf facilities since late 1962 as part of a general recreation credit program for rural areas. After existing commitments for about $10 million in 80 pending loan applications are honored, Smith said, there will be no more.

Smith said the FHA would continue to make insured recreation loans—for such things as swimming pools and similar projects—to local government units.

Smith said the phase-out would not affect a pending $265,000 loan to Natchez Trace Golf Club Inc., of Saltillo, Miss., near Tupelo. He said the club appeared to be meeting stiff federal antidiscrimination requirements and a final decision on formal closing of the loan would probably be made soon.

Criticism Not Reason

Smith said criticism of the Mississippi loan, including protests from a group of Negro congressmen, was not responsible for his decision to shut down the golf course loans. He said he had planned to do so long before that.

Smith said he had "looked with disfavor" on golf course loans since taking office early this year.

The recreation loan program was started in the Kennedy administration as part of an effort to develop the economies of fading rural communities.

Through June 30, the FHA had insured some $102 million in loans for 767 recreation projects including swimming pools, fishing and boating areas, golf courses, rodeo arenas and winter sports facilities.

Under the program, the FHA makes loans at a maximum five per cent interest rate, then resells them on an insured basis to private lenders at commercial rates. Borrowers now pay only five per cent but private lenders collect eight per cent — with the government subsidizing the difference.

Hardin Readies Program

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

Washington (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin plans to present a farm program worksheet to the Senate Agriculture Committee soon in a move to broaden his operating base with Congress.

Hardin and key department officials met for an hour and a half Tuesday in a closed session with the committee. Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., told a newsman afterwards that probably at least one more closed meeting will be held.

Ellender said Hardin and committee members discussed only the broad issues concerning farm legislation and did not delve into specifics of what the administration already has proposed.

Hardin went before the House Agriculture Committee on Sept. 24 and unfolded a variety of "alternatives" which he said the administration offered for congressional consideration.

The package of proposals included one which would require co-operating farmers to set aside a basic amount of land from production but would let them plant as much of what they wanted on the remaining acreage.

Direct Payments

In return, farmers would be eligible for basic price support loans and direct payments on a share of their output. Hardin aides say farmers would have more freedom to make decisions and that government price supports and payments would be flexible to allow them to slide up and down with world market prices.

Thus far, the skeleton programs suggested by Hardin have not displayed much flesh. He still is holding private, off-the-record talks with Chairman W R. Poage, D-Tex., and other members of the House Agriculture Committee but nothing solid has been revealed.

Sources say, however, that Hardin and the House committee may be close to coming up with a working model of a farm bill which could serve as a basis for further discussions.

One version has it that Hardin would like to reduce price support loan rates on basic crops such as wheat livestock feed grains and soybeans to reflect prevailing world prices by 10 cents or more per bushel.

In this way, the administration thinks more grain would move on the world market and not pile up at home as surpluses.

West Resumes Beet Harvesting

Scottsbluff (AP) — After a week's delay because of heavy snows, farmers are harvesting sugar beets in western Nebraska.

The harvest has returned to near normal everywhere except around Gering, where a foot of snow fell last week said Leonard Henderson manager of Great Western Sugar Co.'s operations in the North Platte Valley.

He said there is some concern that the delay in harvesting will open the way for more interruptions due to bad weather.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Halloween is one of those times when extra precautions are needed to guard the health and safety of children. Motorists should be on the lookout since many children will be on their way to Halloween parties or will be out trick-or-treating.

Parents should warn their children against running into the street. In addition, parents should make sure that every child wears light-colored clothing after dark. Children should not wear masks which restrict their vision.

For the Halloween party, be sure that decorations and costumes are fire-proof or fire-resistant if you plan to use candles or torches.

When the trick-or-treat groups come to your door, hand out packaged sweets, rather than homemade foods. By the same token, instruct your children to eat only commercial foods from unbroken packages. Homemade foods and unpackaged foods can be disease carriers.

New German Mood Is Illustrated By Executive Saying 'Please' To Chauffeur

©The New York Times

By DAVID BINDER

Bonn — Frustrated by a parked car blocking his way in front of an office building here, the chauffeur tooted his horn until an executive leaned out of a window and shouted: "Stop honking, you idiot!"

The chauffeur sprang out and ran into the executive's office. "You can't call me an idiot!" he fumed. "We haven't gone that far yet!"

He did not calm down until the executive said "bitte"—please—in asking him to leave. "bitte—that's better," the chauffeur huffed and marched out, his head high.

A West German bystander commented: "That's simply marvelous! A few years ago such a man would have slunk off. He would not have dared to charge into the office and protest face to face."

New National Mood

A new sense of self-respect, an awareness of one's rights and a knowledge of one's situation are evident all across the country at this turning point marked by the installation of a Social Democratic-led government. That new national mood is one of the refreshing qualities a traveler encounters among the 60 million people of West Germany.

The image most West Germans seem to have of themselves these days is a social and economic well-being and comfortable integration into the larger society of European nations.

And there are impressive statistics to back up their attitudes. By the end of the year one of six will have spent a vacation abroad — almost all of them elsewhere in Europe — and they are generally received without the rancor of earlier years.

A decade ago a German journalist published a scathing book about the early postwar occupation days entitled: "You Should Crawl on Your Belly." In that period one could still meet Germans whose posture in front of foreigners resembled cringing, if not crawling.

It was the opposite of that posture of high-handed arrogance that most of the world identified with the Germans of Hitler and the Germans of Kaiser Wilhelm II.

For a time after World War II it seemed as if many Germans swung from cringing before superiors or before the peril of Soviet invasion to arrogance about their economic successes.

Today the dominant mood seems to be stability and modest self-assurance — equidistance from cringing and arrogance.

As the West Germans have been winning a warmer reception abroad, they have also provided a temporary home for 1.4 million foreign laborers, mostly from southern Europe.

They are attracted by working conditions and the pay — in industry the average is well in excess of $2,000 a year, for white-collar workers it is in excess of $3,500; farm workers average $125 a month.

A nation notorious only 30 years ago for a cult of hatred of all things alien, the Germans have become a most cosmopolitan people.

Take Brunswick, for example. A plains city of 227,000 in Lower Saxony, it boasts three Chinese restaurants as well as Turkish, Yugoslav and Italian ones. A recent whisky fad has been superseded by a vodka fad and a gin-and-tonic fad.

'Du' Replacing 'Sie'

As tastes and modes alter, so do manners. Germans place less and less value on being addressed by the formal "Sie" (you, plural) and welcome "du" (you, singular). There is also a tendency away from the use of academic titles like "professor" and "doctor."

These and other trends have contributed to a vast "deprovincializing" of an intensely parochial people who had long followed the maxim of Frederick the Great — that "to harm foreigners is to serve your own nation."

It has been said that Germans are capable of making any state system work with formal efficiency — monarchy, fascism, communism and now democracy. Today in West Germany it seems that people have begun to breathe life into their system of government for the first time.

Nonethless West Germany remains a country of sharp social imbalances. There are estimated to be 500,000 people living at or below subsistence levels. Close by and fenced in are the villas and yachts of the mark millionaires and multimillionaires.

4601 VINE STREET

POSTCARD by Stan Kaplan

Winter has come to hills. The skies are dripping gray rain. The storms move down from Alaska, and the mountains are full of first snow.

And what of last summer's tan?

"Do you think my tan is lasting?" she asked at the breakfast table. S. was trying to look over her shoulder and down her back. Impossible, unless you are one of those pretzel circus ladies.

"It seems to have turned a nice gold," I said. (It was one of those mirror, mirror on the wall questions. Duck the answer else you are Dundee.)

☆ ☆ ☆

Summer's tan fades but the memory lingers on. We spent some time in the Pacific this summer.

The social chick spent long hours on deck telling other chicks: "I really don't want to get tanned. I must be careful."

She tans like a mahogany table. It pours on her naturally.

She watched the other ladies bake agonizingly in the deck chairs and she said: "I try to avoid getting too tanned. I think getting too tanned looks — well, it doesn't add to your appearance, does it?"

They hated her.

Getting sun tanned is a great social thing. Giving the wearer ascendancy over white-skinned muffins.

(It is a curious rating. If you are born brown the social bag is reversed. How is that?)

I said at the breakfast table: "You can't keep it with you."

She said: "I think I still show a good deal of brown. Maybe I should play tennis."

"In this rain?" I said. "What good would that do you?"

☆ ☆ ☆

I must say the summer session on the blue Pacific turned everybody tan except me.

While we were sailing over the deep sapphire sea she said: "You should work on your tan. You don't seem to be getting any color." (Like, "Do you have a tendency to athlete's foot?")

"I don't intend to work on it," I said coolly. I said it coolly because I was in the cool bar having a cool beer.

I said: "Why should I go out and broil? A month at home and it's all gone again."

"The sun is healthy for you," she said.

"A lot of it murders you," I said. "I read it in a health magazine."

☆ ☆ ☆

All the ladies stretched out in deck chairs early in the morning. When they left the deck chairs for lunch, they left their purses. Staking down the property.

They rubbed themselves with goopy stuff from white plastic bottles.

"Tan in minutes with Glow-Skin, the magic freshener used by the Stars."

She got a back like creamed coffee. When the new white-skinned ladies came in from the Mainland she said: "I have to watch myself not to get too tan. Still it's nice in one way. You don't have to wear stockings."

The new ladies smiled grimly. They could have murdered her.

"It seems a shame to lose all that summer tan," she said at breakfast. "I worked so hard on it."

I said: "But you don't want to be too tanned. Don't you remember?"

She said: "I wanted to keep a little."

I said: "You have a little."

She said: "But I wanted it just a shade darker."

"Can I have some more coffee?" I said.

☆ ☆ ☆

She got on the phone and said: "I'm afraid all that lovely summer tan is fading."

She said: "If the weather ever clears, I could get in some tennis."

She said: "Yes, I'm sure. I looked in the mirror this morning."

She hung up and said to me: "It means I have to make a lot of changes in my clothing. Everything I have is based on a sun tan."

"Easy come, easy go," I said.

She said: "How can you be so unfeeling?"

HEW Praises Nebraska's Accounting System

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has congratulated Nebraska on establishing a new accounting system to facilitate administration of grant-in-aid funds.

HEW Secretary Robert Finch in a letter to Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, released Wednesday, commended the "pioneering and innovative spirit in Nebraska."

The new system, known as the "Unified Letter-of-Credit Reporting System," was developed by the Department of Administrative Services and its accounting and data processing divisions.

Under the system, only one letter of credit is received from Washington to release funds for all HEW programs. It reduces the administrative man-hours and large sums of cash formerly required by 350 separate letters.

Key to the expansion of the system is the state's centralized computer facilities that can provide a quarterly report on magnetic tapes to federal agencies on state programs utilizing federal funds.

The Nebraska system is seen by Finch as a model for the other 50 states. Eight states have already expressed interest in Nebraska's centralized computer operations.

Finch said the new system, piloted by Nebraska, "will eventually be nationwide in scope and will prove to offer benefits in dimensions not yet realized in our efforts to improve and simplify grant-in-aid administration."

Commenting on Finch's letter, Tiemann praised the work of the staffs of State Accountant Robert Yeager and Data Processing Chief Ernest Kovaly.

"This accomplishment," he said, "which puts Nebraska head and shoulders above the rest of the states, would not have been possible without the centralized accounting system."

'Action Money' Goes To Sheriff At Clay County

The Governor's Crime Commission reported Wednesday the first subgrant payment of 1969 action money went to the Clay County sheriff's office.

The $840 grant will be combined with $833 from county funds to purchase two mobile radios.

It was the first of 80 payments totaling $122,272 that will be made to local law enforcement agencies, the commission said.

State Hospital Patient, 24, Held In Attempted Robbery

Police are holding a 20-year-old patient of the State Hospital who was arrested following an attempted robbery at a Texaco Service Station at 10th and South Wednesday.

The man will probably be returned to the State Hospital Thursday morning without being prosecuted, officials said.

According to Inspector Robert Sawdon, the man was apprehended about two blocks from the service station shortly after a masked man approached the station attendant and pretended to hold a gun in his coat pocket.

Sawdon said the would-be robber ran when the attendant went inside the station and held the door to keep the man out.

The arrested man is employed in Lincoln but returns to the State Hospital at night, Sawdon said.

The mask apparently was a piece of blanket or other material with slits cut in it. The man was unarmed when arrested, Sawdon said.

Rogers Named To State Equal Opportunity Unit

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Wednesday appointed Ray Rogers of Lincoln to the State Equal Opportunity Commission.

Rogers, personnel manager for Brunswick Corp., succeeds Gar Donnelson of Lincoln, who recently resigned from the commission. The term extends to September 25, 1970.

McCartney Denies Demise

London (AP) — "I am alive and well and unconcerned about the rumors of my death," says Beatle Paul McCartney. "But if I were dead, I would be the last to know."

At least, that's what the Beatles' business organization Apple said he said. The millionaire pop musician was on a motoring tour somewhere in England with his wife, two children and a dog and refused to let it be known where he could be found.

Apple said Wednesday that McCartney telephoned the denial of his demise to London Tuesday night.

"Paul refuses to say anything more than that," said Derek Taylor, Apple's chief spokesman "Even if he appeared in public just to deny rumors it wouldn't do any good. If people want to believe he's dead, then they'll believe it — the truth is not at all persuasive."

Media Flooded

Apple and U.S. news media have been flooded with telephone calls, cables and letters about rumors in the United States that McCartney has been dead for years.

"They are all ridiculous," Apple said.

"It's a lot of nonsense," said fellow Beatle John Lennon.

The rumors are too stupid to bother denying, said George Harrison, another member of the famed quartet.

Beatle drummer Ringo Starr could not be reached for comment.

The rumors claim the Beatles have been dropping clues since 1966 about McCartney's supposed death.

Jockey Jerked

A record-spinner in New York was pulled off the air for recounting the rumors that brought a flood of telephone calls from fans and jammed the radio station's switchboard.

Dallas and Austin, Tex., reported the rumors were rampant there, and Minneapolis news media were swamped with fans' queries.

Most of the clues supposedly appeared on Beatles album jackets.

The cover of the Beatles' "Magical Mystery Tour" album is supposed to reveal a phone number in London, which, when dialed, answers: "Paul McCartney is dead." The number is 231-7436. No such number exists on the London telephone exchange.

Another supposed hint was the license number of a car in the picture on the cover of "Abbey Road," the group's latest album. The license plate was said to bear the characters "28 IF," interpreted by some to mean that if McCartney were alive, he would be 28 years old. McCartney was born June 18, 1942, which makes him 27 — not 28 — and the license plate is "281 F" with the 1 a figure, not a letter.

In the same photo, McCartney's feet are bare, which to some is another sign of death. "It was a hot day," said MacMillan, "and he just took his shoes off and left them on the sidewalk. It didn't seem symbolic to me."

Connors Straight Man

Hollywood (UPI) — Mike Connors, who stars in his own television show "Mannix," will turn straight man on a visit to the Red Skelton show next winter.

Boys' Skirts To Protest Girls In Slacks

North Kingstown, R.I. (AP) — Twenty-five boys showed up at North Kingstown High School Wednesday attired in skirts and dresses in protesting an increase in the number of girls wearing slacks to school.

The sight brough laughter from male pupils and blushes of embarrassment from girls.

The boys were allowed to wear the skirts and dresses through their first classes.

Principal George T. Sprague announced over the school's public address system: "The point had been made and well taken, but for the boys to continue wearing skirts and dresses would disrupt the school day."

2 Plead Guilty To Marijuana Felony Counts

Two Albuquerque, N.M., persons charged last month with felony offenses of possession of marijuana pleaded guilty in Lancaster County Court Wednesday to amended misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana.

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum sentenced James W. Santry III, 24, and Nicky Lynn Kerr, 18, each to seven days in jail and ordered that they take instruction in drug misuse.

The pair were arrested Sept. 6 after a farmer reported some individuals were picking wild marijuana near Interstate 80 near Emerald.

Nixon To Speak On War Nov. 3 At 8:30 P.M.

Washington (UPI) — The White House announced Wednesday that President Nixon will deliver his scheduled Nov. 3 speech on the Vietnam War at 8:30 p.m. CST from the White House.

Press secretary Ronald Ziegler said he now estimated the talk to the nation would run about half an hour.

ADM May Use Chemical Process To Help Curtail Foul Plant Odors

A chemical treatment process that would help eliminate odors in the Havelock area is expected to be used at the Archer-Daniels-Midland plant, it has been learned.

According to Robert White, technical director of the company's Decatur, Ill. plant, the new treatment would "start within the next several weeks."

White said Wednesday the primary chemical treatment hopefully would eliminate the smells from the city's sewage treatment lagoon.

However, Lincoln plant manager Alan Colby said Wednesday evening he "knows nothing" about the treatment mentioned by White or of anything that would be done within the next several weeks.

White said that through the treatment, Soybean refinery wastes would flow into the lagoon without creating a film over the water.

City Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker has said that the oily refinery waste produces a film covering the lagoon. He said the film prevents sunlight from getting to the bacteria which treats the waste and stills the wind agitation of the water, which he said are necessary for the bacteria, which thrives on oxygen, to live.

Blocker said a different kind of bacteria which thrives on the lack of oxygen adequately treats the sewage but also produces odors.

Report On LAP Progress Not Done By Women Voters

A report referred to at the Tuesday meeting on the progress of the Lincoln Action Program was not the results of a study by the League of Women Voters as was understood by other spokesmen at the meeting.

Mrs. Carol Siegmann, a LAP board member representing the League, said Wednesday the statistics which she quoted regarding the needs of the poverty-stricken were from a LAP study.

She told the group at a meeting before the Lancaster County Board that the sampling of the low-income families established the following needs in order of importance: housing, employment, family planning and financial counseling.

Mrs. Barbara Fox, president of the Nebraska Board of Houses of Hope, who stated at the meeting Tuesday that she was surprised the League's report did not recognize alcoholism as being involved in poverty, told The Star Wednesday she was under the impression that the report was part of a study by the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Siegmann said the League has not made a survey nor a report and that the information she was quoting was from the LAP study.

Snow Is Bad For Blizzard

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — The season's first snowfall was in progress Wednesday when a 35-year-old seaman from Charleston, W. Va., fell from the deck of a lake freighter into the Menomonee River. He was rescued, taken to the hospital and treated for exposure.

His name: John Blizzard.

Man Finds Aunt's Stock Certificates In Old Courthouse

One may not be able "to put stock" in a lot of things but apparently there was some stock in the walls of the old Lancaster County Courthouse.

It seems that some certificates of the Lncoln Trust Co. stock, owned by Mrs. Cecil Sawyer who now resides at Homestead Nursing Home, were discovered in the wainscoting of the old courthouse by her nephew.

The nephew, Bernard Logan, who had purchased some of the wainscoting from the old building at the public auction held last spring, was stripping his purchase when he made the discovery.

Mexico City Grows

Mexico City (UPI) — In 30 years Mexico City has grown from 1.7 million inhabitants to 7.5 million. The city budget has increased in the same period from $4.6 million to $242 million, according to the city treasurer's office.

Hawaiian Hail

Honolulu (UPI) — Hail falls once or twice a year in Hawaii but usually it is so small it does little damage compared with hailstorms on the mainland.

NWU Buys Home With Anonymous Donor's Gift

A $79,000 home has been purchased by Nebraska Wesleyan University as a result of an anonymous donor. The home located at 1330 Piedmont, will serve as the residence of Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The present home of Rogers at 5535 Madison will be occupied by Dr. Frederick Blumer, who holds the newly-created post of provost.

The amount of the gift was not announced, but it covered the purchase price of the home according to a Wesleyan spokesman.

The home is the former residence of George A. Lincoln, member of the Wesleyan board of governors and board of trustees, who now lives in California.

State Hospital Officials Sued For Refusing To Admit Man

Richard L. Behrends, 21, has filed suit in Lancaster County District Court asking $1 million in damages from two physicians on grounds they negligently refused to admit him to the Lincoln State Hospital.

The petition said Behrends had been charged in April with third degree arson and that at a later mental hearing, it was determined he should be committed to the State Hospital. Instead he continued to be held at the jail, to his damage and detriment, the petition said.

Named defendants to the suit were Dr. Edwin A. Coats, Lincoln State Hospital superintendent, and Dr. Leonard E. Woytassek, the hospital's medical clinic director.

Behrends contends the doctors refused to admit him to the hospital although they knew or should have known that remaining in jail "would be detrimental to his (Behrends') mental and physical health."

Pope Paul Warns Against Radical Or Hurried Reform

Vatican City (AP) — While the world bishops' synod moved toward recommending sweeping reforms in the use of papal power, Pope Paul VI said Wednesday he would accept only moderate and gradual change in the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope criticized what he called a "hurried need for revision" and said the church cannot be "changed at will." He said the crisis in the church boiled down to a "lack of confidence — confidence in the church as it is."

While the Pope spoke at his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica, the synod in a hall of the adjoining Apostolic Palace heard new requests that the pontiff seek the advice of his bishops more often.

Error In Decree

Belgian Cardinal Leo Suenens, an advocate of church reform, said one of the Pope's recent decrees contained "some incorrect sentences from the doctrinal point of view."

The cardinal also brought up before the synod a suggestion that bishops, as well as cardinals, be allowed to elect popes.

Pope Paul's remarks apparently were intended to warn against expecting radical and immediate reforms to come out of the synod or out of the general ferment in the church.

In Wednesday's session, the 146-member synod assigned a special commission to draw up specific proposals for applying the doctrine of collegiality, or sharing by bishops, in papal decision making.

Consultation Asked

A key proposal that already has won nine subcommissions' majority support asks the Pope to consult with all bishops before issuing major rulings. Pope Paul's encyclicals on birth control and on priestly celebacy were cited by synod members as cases in which he should have sought advice beyond the Roman Curia.

Another proposal asks the Pope to convoke a synod at least every two years on an agenda prepared through consultation with the bishops.

These and all other recommendations which may be included in the final document of the 12-day-old synod must be approved by Pope Paul to become effecitve.

Speaking to the general audience, Pope Paul acknowledged that the synod was aimed at "decentralizing" hierarchical power now vested in the Holy See. But he warned that hasty change in the church would lead to "corrosive self-criticism and even self-injury."

The crux of synod's tentative proposals is a shift in influence on the Pope from the conservative Roman curia to the bishops in the field.

One of Wednesday's speakers at the synod, Patriarch Maxim Hakim of Antioch, suggested that the Pope create a 20-member new body of special advisers, a kind of crown council, to include bishops from around the world.

Speech, Hearing Technicians To Attend Workshop

More than 100 speech and hearing technicians are expected to attend a University of Nebraska-sponsored workshop here Oct. 30-Nov. 1.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Earl Schuman of Kearney State College, and educators from the University of Northern Iowa and the University of Utah.

Cranston Attacks Agnew On New Front

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, strongly criticized for his bitter denunciation of war protesters, came under new fire Wednesday.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., charged Agnew with an "unwarranted, unethical and grossly improper" attempt to influence the Supreme Court in a Mississippi school desegregation case.

Cranston said he was shocked by Agnew saying in Jackson, Miss., that state officials had made "a strong case" for delaying desegregation in 33 Mississippi school districts.

The freshman California Democrat suggested that Agnew devote his time to his "only constitutional duty" — presiding over the Senate.

"President Nixon is convinced that your public officials have made a strong case for additional time to implement the law without destroying the quality of education," Agnew had said. "The NAACP disagrees, and has brought this case to compel immediate action. It is hoped that the result will provide a sensible solution."

Cranston charged that the statement was intended to put pressure on the Supreme Court, which is scheduled to hear arguments on the case Thursday.

Trains To Stop For Change To Standard Time

Travelers aboard Burlington trains will get an extra hour of sleep with the return to Standard Time Sunday morning.

Trains en route at 2 a.m., when the change becomes effective, will be stopped for one hour at various points. The move will avoid confusion in arrival and departure times.

And, the railroad points out, trains are not allowed to depart from any station ahead of schedule — by even minutes, let alone one hour.

Burlington freight trains also will conform with the time change to adjust to the schedules of shippers and connecting railroads.

Podgorny Greeted

Helsinki (UPI) — Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny was greeted at the airport by President Urho Kekkonen and other Finnish officials upon his arrival for a five-day visit.

Lindsay Favored In Mayoral Race, Says Opinion Poll

New York (UPI) — New York voters prefer Mayor John V. Lindsay over his two major rivals in the mayoral race, according to the first results of an opinion poll released Wednesday by the New York Daily News.

Forty-Four per cent of those queried want Lindsay reelected the poll said — with 33% favoring Democratic controller Mario A. Procaccino and 20% for state Sen. John J. Marchi, a Republican. Three per cent were undecided.

Marchi is being supported editorially by the Daily News.

The newspaper's "straw poll" has had a remarkably high margin of accuracy in its 41-year history. It has been wrong only three times.

Brandt Gets Down To Work, Rounds Out Ministry Staff

Bonn, Germany (AP) — West Germany's new government under Social Democratic Chancellor Willy Brandt was sworn into office Wednesday and quickly got down to work.

First task of Brandt's coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats was to round off the staffing of 15 ministries by assigning a parliamentary secretary to assist each cabinet minister.

Meeting in the chancellery, the minister did not touch on one of the key issues facing the new government-upward revaluation of the German mark.

Informed sources said this decision may be made when the cabinet meets again Friday afternoon, and will be announced over the weekend when foreign exchange markets are closed.

Some experts reckon on an upward shift of between 6.5 and 8% to bring the German currency up to its true value.

The Brandt cabinet, which replaced the old coalition of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats under Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, also named some top officials.

Conrad Ahlers was given the post of chief government spokesman. Former journalist Ahlers had been deputy to Guenter Diehl, head of the federal press office under Kiesinger.

Presenting the new cabinet minister, President Gustav Henemann noted that it was the first time in almost 40 years Social Democrats were in charge of a German government.

Narrow Majority

Most West German newspapers remarked that in spite of its narrow majority of 12 parliamentary votes, the Brandt government was not likely to be brought down.

Under basic law, parliament can discard a chancellor only by a vote of no-confidence combined with the election of a successor. The new left-center coalition has a 254-242 majority in the Bundestag.

The papers also agreed that Brandt's elevation spelled the final end of the Adenauer era of postwar reconstruction.

The late Konrad Adenauer launched the federal republic in 1949, and until Brandt took office Tuesday, Adenauer's and Kiesinger's Christian Democrats had dominated the government.

The Christian Democrats reiterated Wednesday their intention of putting up a "fair but tough" opposition.

The Christian Democratic press service pledged that the Christian Democrats are ready to cooperate in foreign policy "if Brandt keeps his word to maintain the continuity of foreign policy conducted to date."

CHANCELLOR BRANDT . . . and his foreign minister, Walter Scheel, confer at cabinet meeting.

Democrats Hold Meet

Washington (UPI) — Spokesmen for Democratic governors conferred with Democratic congressional leaders as part of an effort to establish closer relations with the national party leadership.

Registrant Fails Physical Exam, Quits College

St. Joseph, Mo. (AP) — A registrant appeared at the Buchanan County draft board office Wednesday to notify clerks he had withdrawn from college.

"I quit college," he said. "I failed my physical examination for the service, so I don't have to stay in school."

NASA: Man Not Ready For Space Stations

Washington (UPI) — A male pigtail monkey misnamed Bonnie has convinced scientists that mankind is not ready to design mammoth space stations in which human beings could work safely and effectively for long periods.

That was the conclusion Wednesday in a preliminary report on an ill-fated space flight of the little monkey last summer.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has been considering space station missions of at least a years' duration. Conclusion from the report is that construction of the stations for long habitation now "would be premature."

Bonnie, a 14-pound package of eager vitality, was launched into orbit June 28 aboard the Biosatellite 3 spacecraft on what was intended to be a 30-day study of the physiological effects of weightlessness.

But 12 hours after recovery Bonnie's heart started beating in a furiously irregular fashion and, said the report, "further attempts at resuscitation were unsuccessful."

Can what happened to Bonnie be applied to human beings? Dr. W. Ross Adey, a University of California at Los Angeles professor who was "principal investigator" of the Biosat 3 flight, said that until results of animal experiments are refuted "they must be allowed to stand."

In any case, he said, it is obvious that "it would be premature" to start building big space stations for long habitation by men until much more is known about the physiological effects of weightlessness and why they killed Bonnie.

Women Learn Judo

Aldershot, England (UPI) —Women bus conductors here are being given judo lessons to deal with nighttime troublemakers, police said.

Less 'Grass' Jumps Sales Of Heroin

The New York Times

New York — A joint committee of the New York legislature, investigating drug use among children, was told Wednesday that the federal government's recent "Operation Intercept" — aimed at stopping the flow of drugs into the United States across the Mexican border — has actually caused heroin sales to jump among children and teen-agers in New York.

Dr. Michael Baden, associate medical examiner of New York and a specialist in addiction problems, said that the crackdown had helped to drive the price of marijuana so high that it had become competitive with heroin.

Even before Operation Intercept began, there were reports that marijuana had been in short supply in New York, primarily because of police raids. But Operation Intercept apparently made the shortage even more acute.

Public Hearings

Baden was one of 14 witnesses who appeared before the joint legislative committee on protection of children and youth and drug abuse, which is holding three days of public hearings here.

Baden said he based his information on talks with addicts, who have said of late that reefers — which cost 25 cents only last spring — are now going for 50 cents or even a dollar each in some neighborhoods. But as the price of marijuana has increased, the price of heroin has either remained the same or even eased a bit, because of its abundant supply.

According to Baden, small low-dosage bags of heroin that used to cost $2 and $3 can now be bought in ghetto neighborhoods for $1.

Disparity Less

The result, he said, is that children and teen-agers who have tried marijuana and are curious to try something stronger now find the disparity in cost not as great as it once was.

Unlike marijuana, dependence in heroin tends to increase rapidly and the average habit among adult users in New York now costs them more than $30 a day.

Gen. Turner Called Down Once Again

Washington (UPI) — Retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner was accused by a Senate interrogator Wednesday of blocking an investigation of Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge and letting the case bloom into "a national scandal."

"You could have prevented it," Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., told Turner of the widely publicized allegations that Wooldridge and his Army pals stole hundreds of thousands of dollars from enlisted men's clubs in Germany, then spread their racket to Ft. Benning, Ga., and Vietnam.

Turner, former Army Provost Marshal, denied wrongdoing. He admitted hushing up two investigations of Wooldridge, then the Army's top enlisted man, but said he was motivated by an "aversion to fishing expeditions, witch hunting and baseless rumors" which might damage the reputation of an innocent man.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting subcommittee chairman, announced that Wooldridge and three partners in the alleged club thefts would be called to testify Thursday. The others are M.Sgt. William E. Higdon and retired Sgts. Narvaez Hatcher and Seymour "Sandy" Lazar.

Fifth Amendment

David L. Thomas, attorney for Wooldridge, Hatcher and Higdon, said his clients would claim Fifth Amendment rights against self incrimination and refuse to answer questions.

Ribicoff also said he would ask the Justice Department to check conflicting testimony about guns which Turner got from two civilian police departments and sold for personal profit.

"Perjury was committed in these hearings," Ribicoff said. He referred to testimony by the Chicago and Kansas City, Mo., police chiefs that Turner got the guns for use in connection with his official duties, and Turner's insistence that the chiefs gave him the weapons for his personal collection.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney released a letter in which Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard C. Kleindienst acknowledged he fired Turner last August from his new civilian job as chief of U.S. Marshals after reading Defense Department reports on the investigation. Kleindienst said Turner cleared "the normal FBI full field investigation" before his appointment last March.

Only A Patriot

"I want to make it abundantly clear that I never protected (Sgt. Maj. William O.) Wooldridge or anyone else on an investigation," Turner told the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee on his third appearance before it. He said he was a patriot who had dedicated his life to the Army's "glorious traditions."

As a result of the subcommittee investigation and a parallel probe by the Army, both Wooldridge and Turner have been ordered to return Distinguished Service Medals they were awarded for their Pentagon service.

Ship Afire; Passengers, Crew Safe

London (AP) — The British cargo-passenger ship Loch Loyal caught fire Wednesday night 350 miles southwest of the Azores and passengers crew who took to lifeboats were reported rescued by two nearby ships.

A Royal Mail Line spokesman said all 10 passengers and 19 of the crew were picked up by the German ship Thuringia and another vessel.

Of the dozen crewmen who remained aboard the burning ship, he said, "messages so far received appear to indicate they are safe and well and in no danger."

"There does not appear to be any indication of casualties," the spokesman said.

The 8,476-ton ship was en route from Britain to the American West Coast via the Panama Canal.

Transport Line Folds

London (AP) — London's fleet of red double-decker buses and subway trains will be taken over next year by the Public Greater London Council after an era of independent operation by the London Transport Board, which incurred a $600 million deficit.

Humphrey Says U.S. Fulfills Obligation To Vietnam

©The New York Times

Tokyo — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared Wednesday that the United States has achieved its objectives in Vietnam and fulfilled its obligations to the South Vietnamese people.

Interviewed in Tokyo's luxurious Okura Hotel, Humphrey said the United States had two basic reasons to go into Vietnam: to prevent the spread of Communist armed aggression and to give the South Vietnamese people time for self-determination.

"We have succeeded in both," the Democratic Party leader said.

"If the South Vietnamese have not used their time, that's their problem. We have done as much for a friend as a friend can be expected to do."

No 'Face' Lost

Humphrey, who met Tuesday with Premier Eisaku Sato of Japan, said the United States has not "lost face" in Japan because it is withdrawing from the war in Vietnam.

"The Japanese know we are in a disengagement — in a systematic withdrawal. But there has not been a single reaction here that we are in the process of running away. Everyone I have talked to says we have done our duty and met our commitment."

Last year's presidential candidate found that the Japanese are concerned about the direction of American policy after the Vietnam war ends. The Japanese want to be assured, he explained, that the United States will not withdraw into a shell of economic and political isolation after the war is over.

Treaty Up To Japan

Turning to the Japan-U.S. security treaty, which is up for review next year, Humphrey said it is up to the Japanese themselves to decide whether to continue the arrangement.

Both sides benefit from the treaty, he said, but "the American people would welcome a chance not to be here."

Humphrey's personal opinion is that the treaty itself is desirable but that there are far too many U.S. bases in Japan. He also believes that if Japan renounced the treaty, it probably would rearm very quickly.

"More important than bases is a working relationship in Asia. There can be no progress in Asia without Japan's active support.

U.S. Needs Feel

"We are not an Asian power. We only have interests in Asia. The United States needs more than might for an Asia policy — it needs a feeling for the area.

"That Japan can give us. They have a feeling for these cultures as we do not. We jumped into this area without knowing what we were jumping into."

In the future, he said, instead of Japan being our partner in Asia "we will be lucky if we are the partners of Japan."

Humphrey is visiting Japan on business as a director of the Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.

Truth-In-Credit Act OKd Unanimously By Panel

Washington (UPI) —A bill that would allow people to look into the files kept on them by credit rating bureaus won the Senate Banking Committee's unanimous approval Wednesday.

The measure, which now goes to the full Senate, was inspired by the disclosure that people have been turned down for credit and for employment on the basis of inaccurate information kept by the nation's 2,200 privately operated credit agencies.

The committee also approved legislation to:

—Permit the Treasury to lend up to $4 billion to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which in turn would lend it to savings and loan institutions, making more home mortgage money available. The administration, opposing the measure, said it would not make the money available even if the bill passes Congress.

—Allow the creation of a voluntary credit restraint program comparable to one in operation during the Korean War. The administration also opposed this measure, under which the president could convene a committee of bankers, who would seek to channel credit to its most essential uses.

—Extend until Sept. 22, 1970, the government's power to set interest rates paid by banks and other savings institutions on deposits.

Legislation to institute a voluntary credit control program was necessary to exempt the committee of bankers from the antitrust laws. But the administration said it would not exercise the authority granted by the legislation.

The bill opening the files of credit agencies to the scrutiny of the people affected was sponsored by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who called it the "truth-in-credit act."

During hearings, the committee was told of many abuses — including one in which a salesman was turned down for a job for six years because of a typographical error and unsubstantiated gossip about him resting in his file in a credit bureau.

Proxmire's bill provides that a person must be told upon request why he had been turned down for credit, insurance or employment when a credit report was a factor.

He could have inaccurate information about him deleted from his files and file explanatory statements on information which he disputes.

$15,000 Granted For City's Study Of Rail Crossings

As part of a program to reduce hazards at railway-highway grade crossings, the National Highway Safety Bureau has granted the city of Lincoln $15,000 to study all railroad crossings in the city and county.

The six railroads serving Lincoln, along with local government units, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the University of Nebraska have pledged an additional $82,000 toward the project.

The study is expected to be completed this fall.

U.S. Commanders Say Tactics, Strategy Are Unchanged

The New York Times

By JAMES P. STERBA

Saigon — American military field commanders in South Vietnam contend that there have been no basic changes in their orders on strategy and tactics.

Except for an increased concern with turning the fighting over to South Vietnamese armed forces, United States units are operating as they did six months ago, but with certain refinements in certain areas, the commanders said.

While there are some indications that these refinements — greater reliance on air and artillery support and small unit patrols and fewer large-scale ground attacks such as the battle for Ap Bia Mountain — are attempts to reduce casualties, officials insist they are not based on orders but are the result of changing battlefield situations and not command instructions.

If there are specific instructions to avoid the enemy, or to shoot only when shot at, they are not evident in the field and commanders are keeping quiet about them.

Approach Shifted

The overall approach has shifted in the last year from offensive to defensive. Commanders say the defensive posture, however, has involved vigorous patroling and searching for enemy troops moving toward allied installations and population centers, and there is no evidence here of a relaxation of these operations.

Although "word has gone out" about growing sensitivity over U.S. casualties, American commanders deny that they have been ordered to keep casualties down.

While they acknowledge a current lull in battlefield activity, they contend that the battlefield situation does not even remotely resemble a cease-fire as has been suggested in Washington.

Many of the field commanders interviewed at their jungle and mountain outposts in the last two months said that until they read about it in newspapers they had never heard the phrase "protective reaction," which has been widely described as the current U.S. military approach here.

These commanders range in rank from majors in charge of tactics at the battalion level to generals in charge of strategy at the area level.

They attribute the decline in recent weeks in American casualties to a decline in enemy-initiated activity, and assert that it is not the result of Americans avoiding battles. The decline in activity, they believe, is the result of lessened capacity and — to a large extent — the result of monsoon weather in northern parts of the country which has made traveling difficult.

Casualties last week were put at 84 Americans killed. In the same week last year, 100 Americans died — also a low figure. If enemy units recruit, retrain and refit in their sanctuaries and launch another strong offensive — and the predictions here are that they will — American casualties will rise as in previous periods of heavy activity, the commanders say.

Asked Again

One American major at a mountain outpost near Da Nang said in early September that his battalion was conducting the same type of operations in the same areas as it did when he arrived in late April.

The same major was asked again Wednesday in a telephone interview if his tactics had changed to fit what Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Tuesday termed a "cease-fire of sorts."

He said the enemy units "are around here as usual."

"We're chasing them around as usual," he said. "And they're trying to avoid us as usual. We get into a good fight about once a week, just like we got in August when the politicians in Washington were talking about the big so-called lull. Either they're still putting everybody on or somebody is really putting them on."

No Change Seen

On Sept. 10, a month after Melvin R. Laird, secretary of defense, began discussing a change in strategy from "maximum pressure" to "protective reaction," Maj. Gen. John M. Wright Jr., commander of the 101st Airborne Division, was asked if he had made any changes in operations since June.

"I wouldn't say there has been any change in strategy or tactics," he replied, adding:

"We continue to maintain surveillance over the entire area and attempt to find the enemy any place we can. If and when we do find him, we put as much force in as it takes to meet that requirement. And when we're no longer in contact, we go back to looking again."

Youths Play A Real Game Of Dodge-em

Riverhard, N.Y. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy and three juvenile companions were accused Wednesday of breaking into a car dealer's lot and staging a carnival game of "dodge-em" with real automobiles.

Police said 14 cars were damaged to the extent of $8,000 as the youths drove them into each other.

Included among the damaged cars were new ones, used ones and other left by their owners for repairs. The keys were in them, since the lot is surrounded by an 8-foot-high chain link fence, surmounted by three strands of barbed wire.

Mark Cardogan, 16, was held in the Suffolk County jail in lieu of $500 bond, set by Southampton Justice Edwin Berkery. His arraignment was put off to give him time to obtain a lawyer. He was charged with criminal mischief.

The juveniles, two of them 12, and one 13 years old, were released in their parents' custody for appearance later in Family Court.

Navy Transfers U.S. Destroyers

Washington (UPI) — The Navy has transferred four destroyers based on the east coast to Pearl Harbor to bring the Atlantic and Pacific fleets into better balance.

The four vessels were the USS Lind, moved from Norfolk, Va., the USS Owens, from Charleston, S.C., and the USS Keppler and USS Thomas, both from Newport, R.I.

COSMONAUTS TAKE MOON JOYRIDE . . .

'Oh Boy, Oh Boy, Oh Boy!'

Houston (UPI) — Two visiting Russian cosmonauts, one a livewire, the other a deadpan, went on a make believe trip to the moon Wednesday in an American spaceship.

"Oh boy, oh boy, oh boy" the Soviets shouted in English.

The joy ride came during a hectic tour of the Manned Space Center by Maj. Gen Georgiy Beregovoy of the Russian air force and cosmonaut Konstantin Feoktistov.

Two-Week Tour

The Soviet spacemen, who got a pen and a pendant from President Nixon during a White House visit, are on a two-week American tour.

Beregovoy, the livewire, and Feoktistov, the deadpan, both made it to the moon in a practice machine used to train American astronauts for lunar landings.

But the Russians failed in an attempt to rendezvous and dock in space simulators. Flight controllers blamed it on a faulty computer.

"We're out of time so I'll take control and bring it in manually," said an official in the control room at the end of the docking try.

Beregovoy orbited the Earth alone four days last year in a Russian Soyuz spacecraft. Feoktistov spent a day in Earth orbit aboard a Voshkod spaceship with two other men in 1964.

Lunch With Borman

The two visiting Russians had lunch with U.S. astronaut Col. Frank Borman in the executive dining room at the giant space center outside Houston

The Russians also got a look at moon rocks brought back by the Apollo 11 astronauts. Feoktistov, a scientist, showed the most enthusiasm when he looked through a microscope at a sample of moon dust.

The visiting spacemen then toured the Astrodome.

Beregovoy's son Viktor, 17, who came with his mother and father on the U.S. tour, spent the day at school with Borman's sons.

Over 6 Feet Tall

"He could grow up to be a basketball player. He is over 6 feet now," Borman said of the cosmonaut's son.

The Soviet spacemen also sat in on a practice blastoff of America's second planned moon-landing voyage — scheduled Nov. 14 as Apollo 12.

The Russians are scheduled to hold a news conference Thursday morning, then depart for El Toro Marine Air Station in California.

They will stay at the Disneyland hotel, tour the amusement park and visit several space installations in California.

Their tour ends in New York Nov. 4.

Soviet Union To Construct 'Cosmodrome

Moscow (UPI) — Communist Party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev said Wednesday the Soviet Union intends to build a series of orbiting "cosmodrome" stations that will serve as "mankind's highway to space."

Brezhnev sketched future Soviet plans in space in a speech honoring the seven cosmonauts, who last week successfully completed the first mass orbital flight. It invovled three spaceships and included experiments in welding, which will be necessary in the construction of space stations.

"The Soviet Union has an extensive space program drawn up for many years ahead. Soviet science is looking toward the creation of orbital stations with shifting crews as mankind's highway to space. They can become cosmodromes in space, the launching pads for future flights to the planets."

Approximately 6,000 Soviet dignitaries, including Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny, attended the reception for the cosmonauts in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. Brezhnev said the seven had formed "a sort of Communist cell in space."

Hailing the moon landing of America's Apollo 11 flight as an "outstanding achievement, Brezhnev called for international cooperation in exploring space for peaceful purposes.

"The results of Soviet space explorations are for the use of all mankind," he said. "They are our contributions to the world's scientific, technological progress."

Douglas 'Ignorant' Of Mob Activities

. . . DEAL HELPED FINANCE PARVIN FOUNDATION

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — A hotel-casino sale arranged by gangster Meyer Lansky helped finance a foundation headed for nine years by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who said Wednesday he knew nothing about the deal.

Douglas helped create and direct the Albert Parvin Foundation and served as its only salaried officer — president — until last May

Douglas was asked if he were aware when he helped set up the foundation that one of the biggest chunks of its financial backbone would come from a business deal arranged by Lansky. His office said Tuesday he would have no comment.

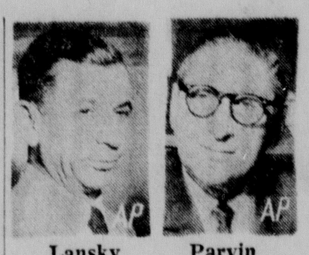
But Wednesday after an Associated Press story about the deal appeared, Douglas said in a Washington statement: "I never had anything to do with the transaction and I never knew anything about it. I had no information whatever about it."

Sale Of Flamingo

The deal was for the 1960 sale of the Flamingo Hotel-Casino here. Parvin was president and principal stockholder of Hotel Flamingo, Inc., the company which owned the hotel-casino.

Under a contract signed by Parvin as company president, Lansky was paid $200,000 for acting as middleman in tne sale of the Flamingo to a trio of Florida hotelmen. Parvin, who owned 30% of Hotel Flamingo, Inc. stock, used a portion of the money derived from the $10.5 million sale to finance his new foundation.

The agreement, also signed by Lansky, was dated May 12, 1960. More than a month before, the three Florida hotelmen, Samuel Cohen, Morris Lansburgh and Daniel Lifter, had applied to Nevada officials for approval of their purchase of the hotel-casino.



Lansky

Parvin

In May 1960, the Nevada Gaming Control Board approved the sale and the following month the Nevada Gaming Commission gave the final okay.

Lansky Not Mentioned

There is no mention in the hearing transcripts of either body of the involvement of Lansky as middleman.

Nevada sources said privately that neither the board nor the commission was aware of Lansky's role.

The terms of the contract with Lansky stipulated that if the sale was made, as it was, Parvin's company would pay Lansky the $200,000 fee in quarterly installments of $6,250 starting Jan. 2, 1961. That schedule would mean the last payment was made to Lansky in October 1968.

An attempt to contact Parvin for comment was unsuccessful. A woman at Parvin's Los Angeles home said he was out of town.

Parvin is the former owner of the Parvin-Dohrmann Co., a multimillion-dollar-a-year Los Angeles hotel supply business. Although Parvin has sold his interest in Parvin-Dohrmann, he still maintains his foundation.

Merger Canceled

Last June, after Parvin sold out, Parvin-Dohrmann and Denny's Restaurants Inc., announced they would merge. The action was canceled earlier this month. Several days later both firms and their officers found themselves involved in a Securities and Exchange Commission court case.

The SEC complaint, filed in U.S. District Court in New York, alleges violations of antifraud, report-filing and credit provisions of the federal securities laws. The SEC also accused Parvin of filing a false and misleading proxy statement with the commission.

A federal grand jury in New York is reported to be investigating the dealings of Parvin, Parvin-Dohrmann and other individuals and companies, but this investigation apparently is unrelated to the Flamingo sale.

Douglas' Help Sought

In an interview several years ago, Parvin said he contacted Douglas in 1960 and sought help in setting up the foundation. Douglas agreed to help.

The foundation's articles of incorporation, dated Nov. 10, 1960, and filed in Sacramento, Calif., show three directors, Parvin, Douglas and William J. Campbell, of Chicago. Campbell is a federal judge. Two years later, Douglas' name appears as president of the foundation on an amendment filed to the original incorporation papers.

Tax records of the foundation dating back to 1962 show Douglas as president, at an annual salary of $12,000. He was the only salaried officer. Proceeds from the Flamingo sale show up regularly as one of the foundation's largest assets.

Tax records prior to 1962 are not public.

Douglas was sharply criticized by members of Congress last spring for his involvement with the foundation. He severed his ties with the organization in May.

Gambling Operations

The Parvin Foundation, by virtue of stock it held in Parvin-Dohrmann, has had an interest in other Las Vegas gambling operations — the Aladdin, Stardust and Fremont, owned by Parvin-Dohrmann. Harvey Silbert, foundation secretary, said that in May the foundation sold its shares of Parvin-Dohrmann. He also said it had received the final payment on the Flamingo mortgage earlier this year.

It could not be determined how long Lansky knew Parvin, but Nevada records show Lansky had two attempted dealings with the Cohen-Lansburgh-Lifter group prior to the Flamingo sale.

The three Florida hotelmen have been associates in such Miami Beach operations as the San Souci, Deauville, Sherry Frontenac, Casablanca, Versailles, Crown and Eden Roc hotels and the Waikiki Motel.

According to a report prepared by the Nevada Gaming Control Board's investigators and read into the record of the board's hearing on the proposed 1960 Flamingo sale, Lansky had twice approached the Cohen-Lifter-Lansburgh group on possible business deals.

Havana Hotel

In 1957, the investigators' report said, Lansky asked the trio if they would be interested in buying the Havana Riviera Hotel in Havana, Cuba. Two years later, he asked them if they would be interested in making a loan on a motel north of Miami Beach. Both times the Florida hotelmen declined.

All three acknowledged, according to the hearing report, that they knew Lansky and his brother Jake, but stated:

"We have never received any money from Meyer or Jake Lansky or any of their associates; never paid any money to them; and, there has been no association where they might say they have any part of our business."

Planners Urge Denial Of Zone Change

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday voted 5-4 to recommend denial of a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to K Light Industrial on property along Seward St. between 60th and 64th Sts.

The majority of the commissioners voted for denial of the request by Ray Judds on the grounds that there should be no further industrial intrusion into an existing residential area.

Judds had planned to develop warehouses on the property, which he described during a public hearing last week as "not suitable for residential development."

Planning Commissioner Robert Allington agreed with Judds and introduced a motion that the zoning request be approved.

Allington contended that the land will not develop into a residential area.

Those voting for denial, however, pointed out that 60 persons in the area signed a petition against the change of zone.

Voting for approval were Allington, George David, George Williamson, and G. E. Deitemeyer; those voting for denial were Ed Perry, Mrs. Thelma Miller, Steve Cook, Jerry Warner, and Adam Breckenridge.

A change of zone request by Les Lindburg for similar zoning in the area also was recommended for denial.

The planning department had also recommended denial of the two requests.

Other recommendations:

—Approval as a non-conforming use of special permit to repair a store front on property in vicinity of 17th and Euclid, requested by Ralph Fox.

—Denial of special permit to establish a new front yard requirment on 9th St. between J and K and on K between 8th and 9th Sts., requested by City Council.

—Approval of street vacation in Seward Ave. from east line of 64th to west line of 66th and portion of 65th north of the Rock Island Railroad and south of Seward Ave.

—Approval of street vacation of portion of St. Mary's Ave. north of vacated Park Ave.

—Approval of alley vacation of east-west alley between West O St. and West P St. east of Brookside Dr.

Awards Given For Service To County Cancer Crusade

Awards were presented Wednesday to some 92 individuals and organizations for their contributions of service to the 1969 Lancaster County Cancer Crusade.

The annual awards luncheon honored Lancaster County unit volunteers who were leaders in the programs of public education, professional education, service to cancer patients and fund-raising activities.

Special citations were prepared for Larry Price, for his contribution of $2,500 and for Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Martin for their contribution of $1,200 toward the year's $43,000 goal.

"More important than raising money is making the contacts to distribute the Cancer Society educational material," that some 4,000 campaign workers helped to do last year, noted unit president Corwin Moore.

Announced as the 1970 Crusade chairman was Lincoln attorney Sidney Sweet. He will lead the campaign to meet the $50,000 goal for next year, Moore reported.

Committee chairmen announced for next year were Dr. William T. Griffin, professional education; Dr. Harry Tolly, public education; Mrs. Bonnie Jones, service; Sen. Roland A. Luedtke, memorial and legacy; Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf, public information.

Top honors of the unit went to the following 1969 Crusade personnel: Allan Beerman, Crusade chairman; Bill Murrel, vice chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf, residential chairman; Mrs. Pat Head, special events chairman; Mrs. Eleanor Crosier and Mrs. Dale Le Baron, independent business co-chairmen; and Dr. Henry Cech, special gifts chairman.

New Law Allows U.S. Servicemen To Be Citizens

Honolulu (UPI) —More than 700 servicemen, nearly 600 of them Vietnam veterans, will become U.S. citizens Friday under a year old public law.

The men will be naturalized under public law 90-633 which becomes a year old Friday. It exempts servicemen from fulfilling the five-year residency requirement.

A military spokesman said 150 of the men are serving in places throughout Southeast Asia.

The new law allows aliens serving in .US. combat forces to be naturalized "in an expeditious manner."

Teammates Respect Cowboy Defensive Leader Baby-Faced Tom Carraway

Stillwater, Okla. — At Oklahoma State they call baby-faced Tom Carraway the "Kid" but they have respect for the sophomore defensive halfback's play.

Flashing his impish grin through rosy cheeks, Carraway laughingly says, "I've always been kidded about that. Heck, some people think I don't shave but I do — about once every two days!"

The speedy ex-quarterback from Altus has averaged about 10 tackles a game and grabbed a pair of interceptions in OSU's upset of Houston. His 4.6 speed in the 40 helps but he has added some useful muscle since his arrival at State.

As a high school freshman he weighed 170 pounds and when he graduated he was only 5-9 by 16. He has grown an inch and an aggressive weight lifting program has him up to 170 pounds.

"My dad started me lifting weights when I was a sophomore," he relates. "I always wanted to play college football, that's probably the reason I stayed with it."

Like so many young Catholic gridders he had ambitions of playing at Notre Dame but admits with a smile, "OSU was the only school to offer me a scholarship and brother, I was grateful to get it."

In high school he started in football, basketball and baseball and with the OSU frosh last year he completed 11 of 23 passes for two touchdowns, scored once on a rush and intercepted a pass. But, he likes his defensive assignments, many of which still cause him concern.

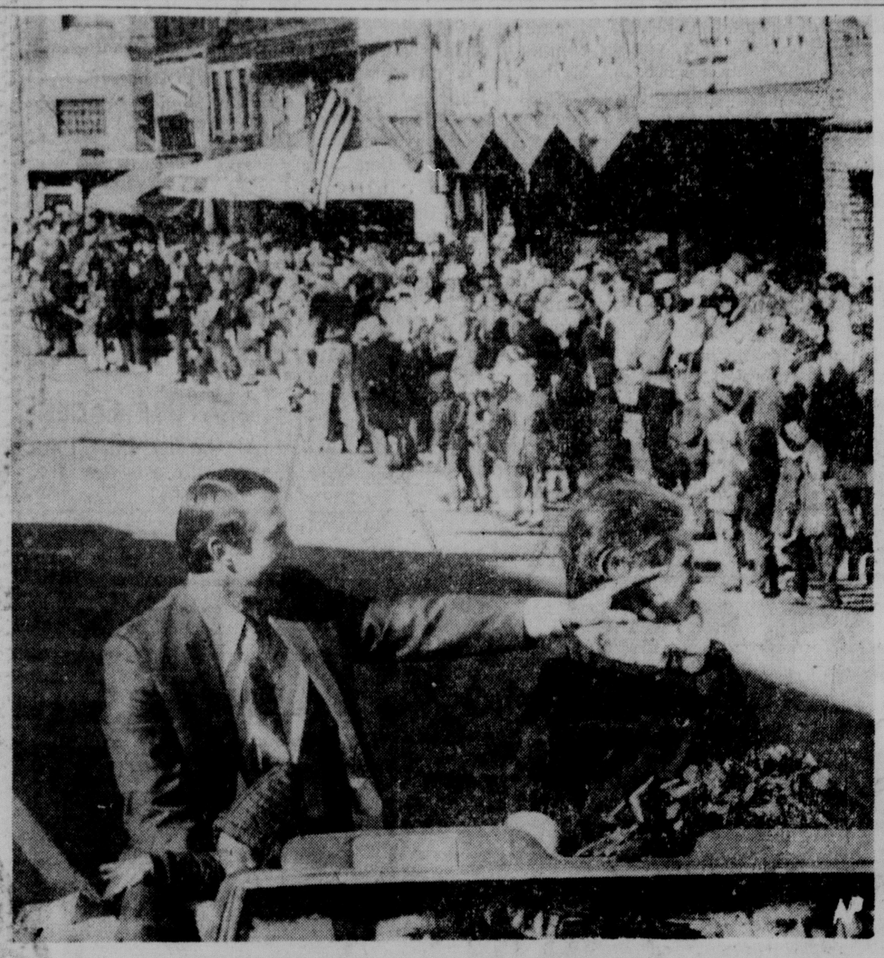
"I'm beginning to understand the defensive coverages better but that's thanks to Benny Goodwin. He calls the secondary coverages and he seems to know everybody's assignment. I don't see how he does it!"

State had enough confidence in Carraway to assign him to cover Houston's fleet split receiver Elmo Wright, who chided the young Cowpoke with the threat, "You little devil I'm gonna burn you (catch scoring passes) three or four times before this game is over."

The final result was Elmo's one touchdown, Carraway two interceptions and 11 tackles! It was the closest shave the "Kid" had . . . in almost two days!

BABY-FACED COWBOY . . . Carraway.

BENCH, SEAVER TOP STARS



TOAST OF THE TOWN

New York Mets pitching hero Jerry Koosman and his wife LaVonne are the center of attention as they parade through their hometown of Morris, Minn. The town of 42,000 persons honored Koosman for his two victories over the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series.

Batting Average Not All To All-Star '9' Voters

. . . ROSE, CAREW ON TEAM

New York (AP) — A batting average isn't everything . . . apparently as far as picking an all-star baseball team is concerned.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati, the National League's leading batter with .348 average, and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, the best in the American League with .332, made The Associated Press' 1969 all-star major league team announced Wednesday.

But more than a dozen .300-hitters received nothing more than honorable mention in the nationwide poll of 283 sports writers and broadcasters.

Failing to make either the first or second team were such hitting stars as Cleon Jones of the New York Mets (.340), Matty Alou of Pittsburgh (.331), Alex Johnson of Cincinnati (.315), Reggie Smith of Boston (.309) and Tony Oliva of Minnesota (.309).

Heading up the all-stars were Johnny Bench of the Reds and Tom Seaver of the world champion New York Mets.

Bench, who shrugged off the traditional sophomore jinx with a .293 average, 20 homers and 90 runs batted in, led the voting with 264 votes. He was such an overwhelming choice as the catcher that his nearest rival, Bill Freehan of Detroit, received only eight votes.

Seaver, top winner in the majors with a 25-7 mark, was next with 237 votes as the team's right-handed pitcher. He was the only Met to make either the first or second team.

The other selections were Willie McCovey of San Francisco (.320) at first, Rico Petrocelli of Boston (.297) at shortstop, Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs (.287) at third, and outfielders Hank Aaron of Atlanta (.299) and Frank Howard of Washington (.296).

Aaron, who hit 44 homers and collected 96 RBIs, was tops in the outfield balloting with 224. Rose had 186 and Howard, who had his best season with 48 homers, 111 RBIs and the .296 average, had 12 votes.

Carew was a solid choice over the Cubs' Glenn Beckert as the second baseman, 217 votes to 42, while Petrocelli, a .297 hitter with 40 homers and 96 RBIs, also had a big margin over another Cub, Don Kessinger, at short — 234 votes to 40.

McCovey's 45 homers, 126 RBI's and .320 average made him a solid choice at first. Although Santo had only a .287 average, he had 129 RBIs, and 29 homers last season.

Cuellar, 23-11 during the regular season, beat out teammate Dave McNally as the left-handed pitcher, 141 votes to 49.

Seaver's was almost unchallenged as the righty, attracting 211 votes more than runnerup Denny McLain of Detroit, 24-9 last season after winning 31 games in 1968.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore (.308), Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh (.345) and Reggie Jackson of Oakland (.276 with 47 homers) were the three runnersup in the outfield voting. Jackson edged out the Mets' Jones by three votes for the final outfield spot on the second team.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota wound up as both the first and third baseman on the second team because of some vote splitting.

Killebrew (.277), who led the majors with 49 homers and 140 RBIs, played both positions during the season and the voters gave him 53 votes at first and 83 at third.

However, his total vote for both positions — 136 — would still have left him behind either Santo at third or McCovey at first.

Ikes Assembly Breaks Ground For Facility

Wet grounds greeted members of the Lincoln Chapter of the Izaak Walton League and their friends for the groundbreaking ceremonies of the new Ikes' building, to be located at the Ikes' "farm" southeast of Lincoln.

Bob Batterman, president, sank a spade for groundbreaking at the site of the new facility. He, and other officers of the League, spoke to the assemblage.

For many years the Ikes have been housed in an ancient structure on No. 48th St., near the old municipal airport. The new facility will feature rifle ranges, an elaborate trapshooting layout, and plans call for archery and small-bore rifle ranges. It is about six miles southeast of Lincoln off Highway 2.

NCAA Places Marshall, San Jose St. On Probation

. . . FOR ATHLETIC INFRACTIONS

Kansas City (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Council placed the football team of Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va., and the track team of San Jose State in California on one year's probation Wednesday.

Marshall drew the penalty for 15 specifications of recruiting and financial aid violations.

Arthur J. Bergstrom, NCAA assistant executive director, called the Marshall case one of the most serious in council history and said, "in my opinion it would have been a very severe penalty if the university had not taken the steps it did."

Dr. Roland H. Nelson Jr., president of Marshall; was commended by the council for his cooperation in the NCAA's investigation.

San Jose was penalized because two of its athletes participated in the Orange County Invitational Track and Field Meet last June 15. The meet was not certified by the NCAA extra events committee.

The council reported it was its feeling San Jose officials should have kept the two athletes from participating. The athletes, who were not named under NCAA policy, were sprinter John Carlos and pole vaulter Sam Caruthers.

A spokesman for the Orange County meet said it had been sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Track and Field Federation, the latter an offshoot of the NCAA, and that meet officials assumed the NCAA would automatically approve it.

The council also privately reprimanded and censured ten of its institutions for participating in uncertified gymnastics meets and eight more schools for competing in uncertified track meets. Because they are private reprimands, the council would not identify the schools.

In other actions, the council reinstated three basketball players to eligibility effective Dec. 21. They are Gary Freeman of Oregon State, Bob Hall, College of Idaho, and Mark Lliteras, Boise State, who all had played in an alumni game at Borha, Idaho, last March in violation of the NCAA's rule against out-of-season competition.

The three had been ruled ineligible in August but Oregon State appealed for Freeman and the NCAA Council reconsidered the case on the basis that Freeman had been misinformed by a high school coach on the rule.

The council also granted Hall Barrasa of Lyndon Vt. State College two more years of eligibility. He lost his sophomore year because he participated in a recreational basketball league out of season.

Bergstrom compared the Marshall University case with that of the University of Indiana a few years ago.

San Jose's indoor and outdoor track teams will be ineligible for NCAA competition for the next year.

Huskers Review Defensive Assignments, Punting In Drill

. . . DEVANEY TAKING NO CHANCES ON INJURIES

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Wednesday was used as a review day by Nebraska coaches as they continued preparing the Huskers for Saturday's date with Oklahoma State.

"We reviewed our punting, plays from the various formations we use and defensive assignments," head coach Bob Devaney explained. "We don't like to do any scrimmaging because we don't feel we can take a chance on getting a Jeff Kinney hurt.

"And dummy scrimmages lead to development of bad habits."

In the punting department, Devaney said he was pleased by several kicks gotten off by Dan Schneiss, Bill Bomberger and Jeff Hughes.

"But all of them also got off a couple of real bad ones," he added. "Despite his bad game last Saturday, Schneiss is still averaging about 37 yards per kick and is still about fourth in the conference in punting.

"We'll probably go with him first again Saturday, but we'll have an open mind and switch to Bomberger or Hughes if it's necessary."

Van Brownson, who has been relegated to a back-up role by the league's passing and total offense leader, Jerry Tagge, worked with the No. 1 offensive unit Wednesday, continuing a policy followed all fall by Husker coaches.

"We've been working our second quarterback with the No. 1 unit at least once each week all fall," Devaney explained. "We've also been doing it with Schniess at fullback and with our split receivers, Dave Mason and Dale Didur.

"We want to keep them familiar with working with the rest of the No. 1 unit. In the case of the quarterbacks, we want to keep the No. 2 man familiar with working with the No. 1 center.

"In the case of Schniess, he's played about as much as Green so we feel he should work with the No. 1 unit some in practice."

Fischer Back

Nebraska assistant coach Cletus Fischer has returned to the Husker practice fields this week after missing the past three games because of a kidney ailment.

Homecoming Game

The Nebraska scout squad, which is used primarily each week to run opponents' plays, have labeled themselves the "Commandoes" and have designated a scrimmage scheduled for today with the NU freshmen as the "Commandoes' Homecoming Game."

Huskers By 12

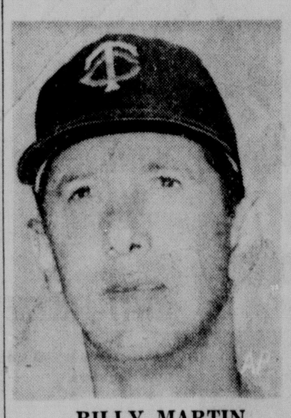
Nebraska has been made a 12-point choice over Oklahoma State by the national oddsmakers for Saturday's game.

Tagge Rates High

Nebraska sophomore quarterback Jerry Tagge ranks 16th among the nation's college passers with his 71 completions for 876 yards.

He is 16th nationally in total offense with 982 yards.

Griffith Offers Twins Job To Rigney



BILLY MARTIN

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — President Calvin Griffith of the Minnesota Twins has reached outside the Twin's organization for the first time to pick a new manager for the American League baseball team.

Griffith has also offered a record salary of about $60,000 to Bill Rigney to succeed Billy Martin as Twins Manager. Griffith fired Martin nine days ago for refusal to follow front office "policy and guidelines."

"Rigney will get the highest salary I ever paid a manager," Griffith said Wednesday. "I know what he was making with the California Angel's and I matched that salary."

Rigney, 51, was the dean of American League managers and was in his ninth season with the Angels when he was fired last May. He has one year to go on that contract.

"The only thing holding up the signing is that Rigney wants to make a settlement with the California Angels on his 1970 contract," Griffith said.

The Twin's boss said he offered Rigney the job while attending an American League meeting in Chicago. "We have agreed on a one-year contract and also the terms," added Griffith.

The official announcement that Rigney has accepted is expected to come a a news conference Thursday or Friday.

Since Griffith succeeded his late uncle Clark Griffith as president of the franchise in 1956 he has picked men from within the organization as managers.

They include coaches Cookie Lavegetto and Sam Mele, and Cal Ermer and Martin, who had managed in the Twin's farm system.

Mele, who led Minnesota to the 1965 pennant, was previously the Twin's highest paid manager. He earned $48,000 before he was fired in 1967.

Martin received an estimated $40,000 in his rookie season while piloting the Twins to the title in the Western Division the past season.

Royals Announce Pitcher Exchange

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Royals announced Wednesday an exchange of players that will move relief pitcher Ron Tompkins, 24, into the Royal organization and send veteran pitcher Dave Wickersham, a former Lincoln Chief, to the Richmond, Va., farm club of the Atlanta Braves.

Tompkins was obtained for Omaha, a Royals' farm in the American Association, but the Royals said he will go to spring training with the parent club and will be given a chance to make the Kansas City roster.

Tompkins had a 5-7 record and a 4.93 earned run average in 36 games for Richmond last season.

Wickersham, 34, was with Kansas City until July 30 last season and posted a 2-3 record, 3.96 earned run average and appeared in 34 games. He finished the year with the Omaha club.

Links To Meet North Platte Tonight

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Coach Andy Loehr's Lincoln High Links kick off the weekend's high school football action when they host North Platte in a Trans-Nebraska Conference battle at Seacrest Field tonight.

The other four Capital City elevens play Friday night, with the intra-city Southeast-East tussle the highlight game.

Northeast travels to Grand Island to tangle with the fast improving Islanders, while Pius X goes to Boys Town to face the state's No. 1 rated Class A Cowboys.

Loehr's defending state champion Links bounced back with a convincing 20-0 triumph over Southeast last weekend following their only defeat of the year. The week before Northeast had manhandled Lincoln High, 33-0.

The Links take an excellent 4-1-1 record into the North Platte contest, while the Platters are even on the campaign at 3-3.

North Platte dropped a one-touchdown decision to Southeast in its season opener. Later, however, against the only other common opponent, North Platte topped Hastings, 28-8, compared to a Lincoln High win over the same club by a 23-0 margin.

Legion Tourney Sites Set

By Associated Press

Next year's American Legion Class A State Junior Baseball Tournament will be played at Ralston, with the Class A Midget tournament at York, the Legion announced Wednesday.

In Class B, the State Junior and Midget tournaments will be played at Rushville.

Sites were selected at a weekend meeting in Grand Island of the Nebraska American Legion's Athletic Committee, which also selected Norfolk as site for next year's American Legion bowling tournament.

The bowling will take place at Norfolk on the weekends beginning March 7 and continuing through April 5.

Area baseball tournaments in Class A will be held at Omaha, Ralston, Lincoln, Columbus, Grand Island and North Platte.

Area tournaments in Class B will be held at Wakefield, Broken Bow, Minden and Gering.

All area tournaments start Aug. 5, 1970, and state tournaments begin on Aug. 14.

Tennis Grand Prix Plan Announced By Kramer

. . . PROMOTERS ON WAY OUT?

New York (AP) — Jack Kramer emerged from seven years of semi-retirement Wednesday as architect of a plan for a $2 million Grand Prix world tennis circuit.

It was an open declaration of war against the pro promoter. There would be no more under-the-table payments to the professional troupes, he said. Tennis would be placed solidly in the hands of the national associations.

"I already have a firm commitment from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Sweden and the United States," Kramer said. "I expect all other tennis playing countries to follow suit.

"The matter is to be brought before the International Lawn Tennis Federation at its meeting in Brussels Dec. 5. A committee will be set up then to run international tennis. If not, our game is in deep trouble.

"We cannot let the promoters dictate the terms of tournaments and run the show. This is the responsibility of the associations with the help of allied promoting groups."

The Kramer plan calls for the staging of 25 open tournaments around the world, with prize money ranging from $25,000," Kramer said. "At the end of the year, players would be graded according to performances in the selected tournaments and prize money would be paid out accordingly, as in Grand Prix auto racing.

"The No. 1 man in men's singles would get $50,000, the No. 2 player $30,000 and on down to $4,000 for 16th place."

Kramer admitted that he had not approached the two leading professional promoters — George MacCall of the National Tennis League and Lamar Hunt of the World Championship Tennis, Inc., who control most of the top pros.

He said, however, that the plan had drawn a hearty endorsement from John Newcombe of Australia, president of the International Tennis Players Association. Newcombe belongs to the Lamar Hunt troupe.

"There is no way they can avoid playing in these tournaments," Kramer said. "This is where the money and the prestige will be." To qualify for the Grand Prix bonus, a player must compete in 80 per cent of the tournaments.

Gibson Pleased With 'Cats

Manhattan, Kan. — Coach Vince Gibson was enthusiastic about Kansas State's workout Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's homecoming football game against Oklahoma.

"Sure it's a big game," Gibson said. "But we've played other big games this year, against Penn State and Kansas. Our kids aren't tense about this one. It's too late in the season for tenseness."

Fullback Mike Montgomery is still a doubtful performer even though he did some running.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. — "This is the week we could really stand an open date," Coach Dan Devine said Wednesday as he readied his Missouri football squad for its meeting with Colorado at Boulder Saturday.

"Here we are going into the home stretch and we have a physically beaten-up football team," Devine continued. "Our defensive line needs a rest badly. It's not just because of the injury situation but mainly because the squad just needs a rest. I'm going to do some looking at our future schedules and see if I can't arrange some open dates."

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. — Football coach Pepper Rodgers said Wednesday he doubts quarterback Jim Ettinger will recover enough from a knee injury to play against Iowa State Saturday.

Earlier Rodgers said sophomore Phil Basler, a left-handed passer, would start if Ettinger could not. Rodgers also said halfback Ron Jessie, who has an injured right hand, would play on defense if he plays.

Blair 26, Wahoo 6

Blair — Blair dumped ninth-rated Class B power Wahoo here last night by a decisive 26-6 count.

Blair dominated play completely throughout the night, and kept Wahoo inside its own territory on all but two occasions.

Blair	8	6	6	6—26
Wahoo	0	0	0	6— 6

Blair—Donaldson, 3 run; 23 run; Plugge (2), 17, 40 passes from Donaldson; PAT—Hall, pass from Donaldson.

Wahoo—Tillman, 2 run.

Dornberger Hits 703

University of Nebraska junior Kevin Dornberger rolled a 703 series Wednesday night at Hollywood Bowl. Dornberger fired games of 234, 213, and 256. He bowls in the American league, and presently holds a 202 average.

Omaha Icers Win

The Omaha Knights Central Professional League hockey team defeated Fort Worth, 4-3, Wednesday night.

Mustangs Eye Ticket Sales For Survival

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha Mustang president Bob Adwers said Wednesday if season ticket sale pledges don't total $150,000 for 1970 by January, he will recommend ceasing Mustang operations here.

Speaking to a group of business leaders, Adwers said the $150,000 figure represented 5,000 season tickets.

Terming the situation "desperate," Adwers said it is certain the Mustangs can play at least six games in the Continental Football League next year, but the question remains whether the club will stay in Omaha.

Adwers said the club lost $38,000 this season and $34,000 in 1968. Over its six years the club has gone $96,000 in the red.

Nebraska City 32, Falls City 7

Nebraska City — Jeff Fisher and Terry Criger paced Nebraska City to a 32-7 win over Falls City Wednesday evening.

Criger and Fisher both scored two touchdowns each and shared 245 yards rushing. Fisher also doubled by kicking two extra points.

Nebraska City	6	6	13	7—32
Falls City	0	0	0	7— 7

Nebraska City—Criger (2) 21 and 1 runs; Fisher, (2) 4 and 10 runs; Cole, 1, 14 run; PAT—Fisher 2, kick.

Falls City—Stalder, 9 run; PAT—Jelik, kick.

Crete 20, David City 6

Crete—Dave Bals scored all of Crete's points Wednesday night with three touchdowns and a two-point conversion as the Cardinals downed David City, 20-6.

David City scored first on a one-yard run by Bob Martin, but Bals scored twice in the second quarter on runs of two and 14 yards to give Crete a 14-0 lead at the half.

Another Bals score, this one on a four-yard run in the final period, capped the scoring.

Crete	0	14	0	6—20

Crete — Dave Bals, 2 run; 14 run; 4 run; PAT — Bals, run.

David City—Bob Martin, 1 run.

Omaha Boxing Cards Slated

Omaha — Omaha's high-ranking middleweight Art Hernandez is pitted against Council Bluffs' young knockout artist Ron Stander in the first Pro-Am boxing match, which makes its debut here Nov. 17.

A group of businessmen, which has formed the Midwest Boxing Club plans to promote top national talent against local standouts on a regular basis.

The "first-ever" Pro-Am Omaha card is under the auspices of the club, a non-profit organization and sanctioned by the state AAU and the state athletic commissioner.

NU Passing Attack Nears Big 8 Mark

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska has the Big Eight Conference's leading passer and top three receivers. It is no wonder that the Husker passing attack has an exceptional chance to be written as the greatest in the 63-year history of the league.

The prolific aerial barrage authored by Jerry Tagge and his mates is producing over 221 yards a game now, compared with the 185.7 record set by Kansas State last year. Successful at an amazing rate of almost 58 per cent, the Huskers have swept over 200 passing yards into their offensive basket the last four games, hitting a seasonal high of 260 last weekend

That completion percentage also puts the Nebraskans in shape to whip the team passing percentage mark of .559, set by Oklahoma in 1966. The Huskers, so far, have found the range 94 of 167 times. The per-game completion rate of almost 19 also puts the Cornhuskers on record road. Last year Kansas State completed 153 for the current standard

Fairbury 24, Auburn 13

Fairbury — Senior halfback Guy Stewart, playing in his first full-game of the year, sparked Fairbury to a 24-13 victory here last night.

Stewart scored three times, once on a long 66 yard jaunt. Fairbury fell behind early in the fourth quarter, but Stewart's efforts brought them back from a one point deficit.

Fairbury	0	6	6	12	—24
Auburn	7	0	0	6	—13

Fairbury—Stewart (3), 15 pass from Rosener, 25, 66 runs; Miluis, 23 pass from Rosener.

Auburn—Tynon (2), 1, 24 runs; PAT—Rippe, kick.

Golfer Arrested; Out On Bond

Elizabeth, N.J. (UPI) — Floren DiPaglia, 44, a Des Moines, Iowa, golf champion, has been indicted on charges stemming from an attempted robbery of a Springfield, N.J home last month.

DiPaglia, who took the Iowa golf crown in 1965, and is also well known on the Nebraska golf scene, was indicted Tuesday on charges of assault with intent to kill a police officer and armed robbery. He has been released on $15,000 bail.

The indictment against DiPaglia charged he attempted to fire his pistol twice at Lt. Thomas J. Kenny while attempting to escape through a back yard. The gun misfired both times.

McCook Claims No. 13 Ranking

Hutchinson, Kan. — McCook Junior College, on the strength of its 21-13 victory last week over the Nebraska Frosh, jumped to the No. 13 spot on the weekly National Junior College Athletic Assn. football poll released here Wednesday.

The Indians, who play at Pratt, Kan., Saturday, are currently 4-1-1 on the season.

Beatrice 21, Millard 6

Millard — The Beatrice Orangemen took an early first quarter lead here last night and held on to post a 21-6 triumph over Millard.

Beatrice held a shaky one point lead at the half, but came on strong in each of the last two quarters to sew up the win.

Millard	0	6	0	0	—6
Beatrice	7	0	7	7	—21

Millard—Sinkule, 1 run.

Beatrice—Fchlicting, 6 run; Jones, 7 run; Raghbun, 38 pass from Grazes; PAT—Jones, (3), kicks.

Auto Crash Injuries Fatal To R. A. Hand

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP) — The former head of the Nebraska Employment Service office, Russell A. Hand, 66, died Wednesday in a Cheyenne hospital, 11 days after a three-car smashup that earlier claimed another life.

Hand died of injuries suffered when a station wagon in which he was riding and a skidding car collided on an icy stretch of two-lane highway just south of Glendo. A third vehicle ran into the first two cars.

Killed outright was 51-year-old Mike Fernandez, of Sunrise who was thrown from his car.

A station wagon driven by George J. Thul, 65, of Bellevue, Neb., then struck the Fernandez car. Injured and hospitalized in Wheatland were Thul; Edward F. Sterba, 58, of Bellevue; Edward F. Clark, 65, of Scottsbluff, Neb. and Hand.

After a check at the Wheatland hospital, Hand was transferred to Cheyenne.

Hand was one of four men returning in the Thul auto from a hunting trip his wife said.

Hand retired July 1, 1968 after 32 years with the NSES, 25 of them in the Omaha office. He estimated he had helped one million Omahans find jobs.

Since his retirement he had helped find jobs for "the hard core unemployed" as part of the National Alliance of Businessmen's program.

Commuted Sentence Urged For Thomas J. White Hawk

Pierre, S.D. (AP) — The South Dakota Board of Pardons and Paroles recommended Wednesday that the death sentence for Thomas James White Hawk be commuted to life imprisonment.

Gordon Hayes of Pierre, a member of the board said the decision was reached at a special meeting Monday.

After receiving the recommendation Gov. Frank Farrar announced he would hold a news conference Friday morning to make a statement about the case.

White Hawk, 22, was sentenced to death in the 1967 killing of James Yeado, a Vermillion, S.D. jeweler.

He has received two reprieves since the execution was ordered by Circuit Judge James Bandy of Armour, S.D. White Hawk pleaded guilty to the murder charge.

Armstrong Is Reclamation Commissioner

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has appointed Ellis L. Armstrong of Salt Lake City to be commissioner of reclamation, the White House announced Wednesday.

Armstrong, 54, has been since May 1968 assistant regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation in Region 4, which includes areas in Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado and Arizona.

He succeeds Floyd E. Dominy, who is retiring effective Oct. 31. Dominy is a Nebraska native, formerly of Hastings.

Armstrong's new post pays $36,000 per year.

Nixon also named Philip C. Walkins of Sacramento, Calif., to be U.S. district judge for the eastern district of California.

Auto Hits Tree Killing Driver

Omaha (AP) — Dennis F. Warstat, 22, Omaha, was killed early Wednesday morning when his car went out of control on North 85th Street, hit a tree and rolled over.

The death brings the Nebraska traffic toll for 1969 to 206, compared with 373 on Oct. 22, 1968.

Housing Bill Gets Boost From House

Washington (UPI) — The House added $1.8 billion to a $3.1 billion Housing Bill Wednesday but killed a controversial plan for direct low-interest home loans to middle income families.

During debate on the measure to continue existing housing programs for another year, the House agreed to pump an extra $1.5 billion into low and moderate income federal housing programs and another $300 million into urban mass transit.

It defeated a proposal by Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., that would have set up a direct loan program for middle income families who want to buy homes over the next five years.

The Sullivan plan, defeated on a 111-78 nonrecord vote, would have authorized $10 billion in direct loans at maximum interest rates of 6½% for persons with good credit ratings to purchase homes.

Atlantic Richfield Said Low Bidder On Gas For City

Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. was the apparent low bidder Wednesday on regular and premium gas for the City of Lincoln.

The firm bid 19.07 cents per gallon for regular and 20.55 cents per gallon for premium.

Assistant Purchasing Agent Dean Block said the total cost would run around $95,500 based on the amount of gas purchased last year.

The apparent low bidder on a paving district in 44th St. from Cornhusker Hwy. to Superior St. was Dobson Brothers Construction Co., who submitted a bid of $58,534.40. The firm also had the apparent low bid of $4,743.90 for a paving district in Lowell from 39th to 40th Sts.

N. L. Cole Construction Co. had the apparent low bid of $9,543 for a sewer district in N.W. 12th St. south of Interstate 80.

Bacon, Other Price Hikes Add Fuel To Inflation

Washington (AP) — It cost nearly a nickel more a pound to bring home the bacon last month and other price hikes added fuel to the nation's worst inflation in some 20 years, the government said Wednesday.

Living costs rose 0.5% in September, pushing the consummer price index to 129.3. That means it cost $12.93 last month for the goods and services that cost $10 ten years ago.

Bacon led the parade of food price hikes, climbing from 90.9 cents to 95.8 cents a pound, the Labor Department said. Grocery prices on the average remained unchanged instead of showing the usual September drop, and higher restaurant charges boosted over-all food prices 0.1%.

Clothing prices showed twice the usual September rise, up 1.7% for the month, housing costs climbed 0.6% and medical care 0.5%.

The only major item to decline was transportation, down 0.5% largely because of lower new and used car prices in anticipation of the 1970 model year, said the report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase said the over-all 0.5% rise for September was the same as the average monthly rise in living costs so far this year.

"I would not call it an acceleration," he said. "The acceleration has stabilized."

Still, prices were rising at an annual rate equal to the 5.9% increase in the Korean War year of 1951 before wage-price controls were imposed. The sharpest increase before that was 9.1% in 1947 after World War II controls were lifted.

The Nixon administration, still insisting that its tight money, high interest policies will eventually slow the rate of inflation, has steadfastly discounted any thought of wage-price controls now.

Chase said the administration is pinning its hopes on the future. "September is in the past," he said, and predicted that next year's rise in living costs will be less than 1969's.

The average gross weekly paycheck of $117.80 was worth 40 cents a week more in purchasing power after deduction for taxes and price hikes.

"Charges for consumer services advanced 0.7%," the September report said. "Mortgage interest costs and other services associated with home ownership led the increase and charges for medical care services continued their persistent climb."

More East-West Trade Backed By Senate Bill

Washington (UPI) — The Senate voted 49-24 Wednesday to liberalize trade with the Soviet Union and its allies, reversing a 20-year policy over the Nixon administrations firm objections.

It approved a bill cutting from 1,300 to 200 the number of categories of goods considered strategic. U.S. companies are barred from selling strategic goods to Russia and eastern European countries.

The administration had backed a bill, passed by the House, which would have merely extended for another two years the 20-year-old Export Control Act.

Examples Given

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., cited these examples of goods for which an export license was required under the old law before they could be sold to the Soviets — disinfectants, cement, vaccine, yellow corn, textile finishing agents, fabrics, herbicides and insecticides. Requiring a license for such sales, he said, carries the "inherent implication that such sales are somehow questionable if not downright unpatriotic."

The Senate action would limit the "strategic goods" list to those items having a direct military use.

An attempt by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, to substitute the House measure for the more liberal Senate version was defeated 44-34.

To Conference

The legislation now goes to a conference committee of House and Senate members which will seek to reconcile the different philosophies in the two bills. Its compromise version will then go before both chambers for final approval.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., rejecting the administration policy, argued that it was self-defeating for the United States to refuse to sell to the Communists goods which every other Western nation sells to them.

"Other Western nations think it is incredible that we're letting them have all this business," Percy said. "We turn down millions and millions of dollars worth. They think we're certainly naive."

But Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., called the Senate measure, sponsored by Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Walter Mondale, D-Minn., "A menace to national security and an unwarranted affront to the President."

Although the bill reduces the number of categories of goods which can be considered strategic, it leaves to the President the final discretion on what exports to prohibit. If the administration fails to adhere to a liberalization of East-West trade, it is required by the bill to give Congress an explanation.

FCC, TV Nets Oppose Political Discount Bill

Washington (UPI) — A television network president said Wednesday a bill pending in Congress could cause the three major networks to consider shutting down in prime time during the five weeks preceding an election.

CBS president Frank Stanton told the Senate communications subcommittee a bill that would reduce rates to political candidates "would require each network to consider seriously whether it would make sense to operate during prime time for the five weeks preceding elections."

The three television networks and the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission testified against the bill that would require discount rates for political advertising.

Chairman Rosel H. Hyde said he supported the principle of lowering campaign costs, but said the FCC opposes the bill under consideration. He said it would give the financial break only to candidates for the U.S. House and Senate.

CBS, NBC and ABC repeated their plea for a repeal of the "equal time" provision which requires that they give free time to all candidates if they give it to one.

They also said that reduced rates to congressional candidates at 70 or 80% below normal rates would take up much of their prime time.

Julian Goodman of NBC testified, "We have provided such reduced rates in the past and are prepared to do so in the future on a more extensive basis." But he said NBC opposes a law requiring it "because we believe it discriminates against one medium and, in effect, penalizes broadcasting efficiency."

Leonard Goldenson of ABC said a provision authorizing the FCC to regulate the allotment of time "creates a potential administrative nightmare in the major cities of the nation."

Georgia Desegregation By September Sought

Washington (UPI) — The government sought a federal court order Wednesday to desegregate every public school in Georgia by next September.

The Justice Department asked U.S. District Court in Atlanta for a preliminary injunction in connection with its Aug. 1 desegregation suit, which set forth no deadline for desegregation of the state's entire school system.

The Aug. 1 suit was filed in connection with the new Nixon administration policy to substitute legal action for cutting off federal school aid funds to districts that maintain segregated schools.

Three weeks later, Georgia filed a motion to have the suit dismissed, which is certain to cause considerable delays.

But Deputy Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank M. Dunbaugh said the practical effect of the preliminary injunction — if granted — would be to eliminate the need for a court suit.

The Aug. 1 suit charged that Georgia officials, "perpetuate the unlawful dual system of schools based on race and educational opportunities for Negro students which are inferior to those provided for white students."

The suit, as well as the request for an injunction, applies to all of Georgia's 192 public school systems. Of Georgia's one million pupils, the suit charged, only 15% of the state's 360,000 Negro children attended predominantly white schools last year.

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox charged Wednesday that his state was singled out by the Justice Department because President Nixon does not like him.

Hardin Says Americans Spend Lowest Percentage

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin said today American consumers in 1969 will spend only about 16.5% of their income after taxes for food — the lowest percentage in the world.

This will be down from 16.8% in 1968 and from 20% in 1960, he told a Senate-House economic subcommittee which is holding hearings on the federal budget, inflation and employment.

Hardin said food prices have risen substantially in the past year, but not as fast as nonfood items in the cost of living index.

"The increases in food prices in recent months have been a result of strong consumer demand, fractionally lower per capita supplies of livestock producers, and the general inflation which has affected prices of all items," the secretary said.

In discussing the increase in beef prices, Hardin said red meat consumption last year was a record 183 pounds per capita, 22 pounds more than in 1960.

Retail beef prices rose 13% from 1960 to 1968, Hardin said, while retail prices for pork averaged nearly 23% higher than in 1960.

Hardin said production of beef increased 41% between 1960 and 1968, and the ratio of imports to production rose from 5 per cent to 7 per cent.

Prices received by farmers for beef cattle during 1960-68, Hardin said, fluctuated between $18 and $23.40 per 100 pounds.

Speaker Kept Aide On Despite Adverse Data

The New York Times

Washington — House Speaker John W. McCormack kept Dr. Martin Sweig as his administrative assistant for several weeks after the Justice Department reportedly informed the speaker that his aide was under investigation.

Reliable sources on Capitol Hill said Wednesday the speaker was first informed about two months ago that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a federal grand jury in New York were looking into Sweig's contacts with the executive branch of the government.

McCormack suspended his assistant Oct. 16, the same day that the Securities and Exchange Commission filed a civil suit in New York that disclosed that Sweig had intervened in a case on behalf of a lobbyist for the Parvin-Dohrmann Co.

It was learned Wednesday that the government's interest in Sweig's activities first began with the prosecution of Jack McCarthy, a New York labor official and accused racketeer. Last June 14, when McCarthy was sentenced in Federal District Court in New York on a conviction for false income reports, the government prosecuter said there had been "a blatant attempt at influence peddling" to protect McCarthy.

In the course of McCarthy's trial, Labor Department officials testified that they had held an unusual meeting with McCarthy March 2, 1965, to consider his claim that his income reports were in order. The officials said at the trial that they had held this meeting only because it was requested by "a congressman."

Wednesday, the Labor Department confirmed that the appointment with McCarthy had been requested by two congressional offices — personally by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., and by Sweig invoking the name of McCormack.

In that meeting, McCarthy was accompanied by Nathan Voloshen, who has been implicated in the SEC suit as having intervened with Sweig in the Parvin-Dohrmann case.

Probe Broadens

It has been learned that the Justice Department's investigation into the activities of Sweig and Voloshen has now broadened to include at least a score of unusual contacts with the executive branch and independent agencies.

It was not known how much of this was told to McCormack when he was first contacted by the Justice Department about two months ago. However, in suspending Sweig, McCormack said he was acting because of the SEC incident. He said he had been informed of this "during the past 48 hours."

Asked Wednesday about the reported time lapse, McCormack said that "while the matter is before the grand jury I don't want to get into this any further. I respect the grand jury and the secrecy. I will answer any questions at the proper time."

Notification Normal

When the FBI and the Justice Department investigated allegations concerning the office of a member of Congress, they often notify the member involved to dispel any feeling that the government is undertaking surreptitious surveillance of the politician.

In this situation there was greater reason to contact McCormack, as some of the contacts under investigation were made by telephone by a person purporting to be the speaker.

The investigation, which also includes a federal grand jury inquiry in Baltimore, has reportedly turned up several instances of contracts by Sweig with officials of the Bureau of Prisons on behalf of federal prisoners.

P-U-R-R-FECTLY SAFE

One of two shy Siberian tiger cubs sprawls sleepily—and safely—in the paws of his mother, a 600 pound tigress known as "Mom," at New York's Bronx Zoo. The cubs, born last August, were not placed on public display until Wednesday. Zoo officials explained that "Mom" has been reluctant to show her kittens off until now—and the officials have understandably gone along with her.

Whites Slow To Realize No One Man Leads Blacks

By THOMAS A. JOHNSON

The New York Times

New York — This question inevitably follows every Negro disorder or controversy:

"Who speaks for the black community?" In recent years, it has been as predictable as the other inevitable queries: "How did it happen 'here?' " and "what do 'they' want now?" The running controversy between Harlem residents, both for and against the proposed State Office Building, has caused a renewed outsider interest in just who does speak for black people.

The obvious answer is that many people speak for the black community, just as many people speak for non-black Americans. The thrust of black activism today, however, is aimed more at making certain that "only" black people speak for the black community and less toward "one" black man speaking for all black men.

Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, the director of the Metropolitan Applied Research Center, has stated:

"It is no longer realistic — no longer good politics — for top white political officials to depend upon whites as interpreters of the needs and aspirations of the Negro people. This might be comfortable and convenient for harried chief executives but it is now archaic, unrealistic and self-defeating."

No Monolith

Persons raising the "who speaks" question would do well, for the sake of clarity, first to answer the question, "which part of the black community?" for black America is no monolith.

Black America today is a varied conglomeration of many interests, schools of thought and life styles. It is also a community ripe with activism and the growing fervor for some "grass roots" participation in the control of black communities.

Should an outsider going to one of the nation's black slums ask to meet "a moderate," "a militant," "a Muslim," "an extremist," he could easily be directed to many people representing a variety of views within each classification and probably all in one block. He could be shown that some activists fit none of the normal classifications and other individuals can fit more than one.

The implication by White questioners wondering "who speaks for blacks" both amuses and angers the black activists. They are amused because whites know so little about black communities, and angered because of the implication that one man should speak for black people while no one man speaks for whites.

Galvinize Under Fire

Various elements of the black community have been galvanized on occasion, of course, when there is, or there appears to be, an attack on black interests or individuals from the outside community.

There was a groundswell of resentment when Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., D-N.Y., was denied his seat by the 89th Congress, although many of the protesters were publicly critical of the congressman personally.

Similar protests came from the black community when Muhammad Ali's world heavyweight boxing title was taken away because of his refusal to serve in the armed forces on religious grounds. And the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had few followers among urban black youths, these youths rioted in 106 cities when King was murdered.

But the black community follows no single leader. At the same itme, there is a growing awareness of the imporatnce of elected leadership for the solutions of specific community problems.

More Sensitive

Mrs. Shirley Lacy, director of training for the Scholarship, Education and Defense Fund for Riacial Equality, has noted that the black community has been "sensitized to inequities in the system by the civil rights movement, the riots and the war on poverty. Now they want to know 'how' the system works. They want to know how to become an effective part of it and they are learning."

The number of black elected officials has more than doubled in the last two years. There are more than 1,200 nationally.

This number is expected to increase even more as the demand for blacks speaking for blacks grows and with the reapportionments that will most likely follow the national census in 1970.

New Atlanta Mayor Helped By Opposition

By DON McKEE

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — Mayor-elect Sam Massell's campaign manager, confident of victory, half seriously suggested on election eve: "The first person you ought to call and thank is Ivan Allen."

Massell, 42, liberal Democrat who has been vice mayor eight years, won handily over Republican moderate Rodney Cook, 45, an alderman, in Tuesday's mayoral runoff despite the opposition of retiring Mayor Ivan Allen Jr.

Allen had told a Sunday news conference Massell "misused his position" and should withdraw because Massell's brother, accompanied by a police captain, solicited campaign funds from night clubs several weeks ago.

There was a belief in both camps that Massell was helped, not hurt, by Allen's charges. "It very definitely solidified my support," Massell said Wednesday, but added that there could only be speculation on whether the development was a decisive factor.

Massell racked up nearly 55% of the vote, 62,632 to 51,289, giving Atlanta an unprecedented combination of a Jewish mayor and a Negro vice mayor. Elected to the second highest post two weeks ago was attorney Maynard Jackson.

Apollo 12 Men Might Not Wear Quarantine Suits

Anaheim, Calif. (UPI) — The Apollo 12 astronauts may not have to wear cumbersome moon bug quarantine garments when they get out of their spacecraft next month after splashdown.

A top space agency official said Wednesday the agency has asked permission to substitute a lightweight face mask with a biological filter for the garments, which were designed to keep the astronauts isolated from the rest of the world.

Christopher C. Kraft said the bulky garments, which caused the Apollo 11 crewmen to get dangerously overheated after their South Pacific splashdown in July, appear unnecessary.

American Motors And UAW Local Talks Stopped

Racine, Wis. (UPI) — United Auto Workers Local 72 Wednesday broke off negotiations with American Motors Corp. Because of AMC's announced plans to purchase Kaiser Jeep Co. for $86 million.

The negotiations had been proceeding since the UAW struck the nation's smallest domestic automaker and Wisconsin's largest private employer following expiration of a contract Oct. 16.

No Progress In GE Talks

New York (UPI) — No progress was reported Wednesday in negotiations between the General Electric Co. and two major unions representing GE employes.

A nationwide walkout at GE plants is scheduled for midnight Sunday unless the giant company can reach agreements with the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and the United Electrical Workers (UE). About 110,000 employes would be affected.

The unions seek a 30-month contract and have rejected a three-year contract offer from the company.

AUSTRONAUTS TOUR CONGO

Kinshasa, The Congo (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts arrived from Turkey Wednesday in response to an invitation of President Joseph D. Mobutu — when they were on the moon — that they visit the Congo.

WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT NERVE HEARING LOSS

If you have experienced some of the symptoms of nerve loss, the first step is TO SEE YOUR EAR SPECIALIST, where you will be given an audiometric hearing test. This is a simple, painless procedure to determine the exact nature and extent of your impairment.

If it is revealed as a Nerve Type loss, your doctor will tell you that you can regain the use of your hearing with a hearing aid, thus preventing further weakening of the hearing center through disuse.

Drop me a line or call and I'll send you a most interesting booklet by Maico on "Nerve Defense."

Stock Prices Soar In Heavy Trading

New York (AP) — The stock market Wednesday climbed to its highest level in almost six months on the fourth-heaviest trading volume of the year.

Brokers and analysts said much of the day's heavy buying was based on investor's increased peace hopes and the steadily rising market of the past few day's that had attracted buyers who had been waiting in the wings.

Institutional trading, as measured by blocks of 10,000 shares or more changing hands, was heavy. The 117 blocks traded was a marked increase over Tuesday's 89 blocks.

"Investors have centered their attention almost entirely on developments surrounding the Vietnam situation and are responding to the belief that major de-escalation is imminent," said one analyst.

"They are ignoring all signs that inflation . . . continues evident," he added.

News that the cost of living rose last month apparently failed to dampen investor enthusiasm.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 13.47 at 860.35, its highest level since April 30.

Total volume on the New York Stock Exchange of 19.32 million shares was the fourth-highest of the year and the highest since last Thursday, when 19.5 million shares changed hands.

The Associated Press 60-stock average climbed 2.9 to 299.1, with industrials up 6.5 utilities up .3, and rails up .9.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks rose 0.35 to 54.66. Standard and Poor's 500-stock index gained .63 to 97.83.

The largest of the 10,000-share-or-more block trades was Union Oil of California on 234,500 shares off 2 at 45. Union oil closed the second most-active on the New York Stock Exchange off 1¼ at 45¾.

Benguet was the most-active stock on the New York Exchange with 505,500 shares of 17⅛ at 14¼.

There were 88 new highs and 16 new lows for the year.

Prices increased on the American Stock Exchange with a volume of 8.55 million shares, the heaviest trading since May 7.

The Amex price index rose 11 cents to $28.23. Among the 1,107 individual issues traded, 569 advanced, 383 declined, and 155 were unchanged.

Fed Cattle Prices Up At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Recovery in dressed beef prices late Tuesday and early Wednesday backed moderate marketings in the midlands to push fed cattle prices upward.

Trading at Omaha Wednesday was fairly brisk on a moderate midweek outlay with values on fed steers turning 25-50 cents, mostly a full 25 cents higher.

Beef steer top here moved up to 28.50 for four loads of choice to prime 1,050-1,175 lb. offerings.

Heifers peaked at 27.10 for a load of choice to prime 950 lb. weights.

Moderate receipts also factored in a recovery move in the hog market. Butchers sold 25-50 cents higher and sows steady to 25 cents higher in fairly active bargaining. Bulk 200-400 lb. barrows and gilts 25.25-25.75.

Sows bunched at 22.50-24.00 for 300-600 lb weights

Slaughter lambs traded steady to 25 higher. Toppy shorn 28.75, woolies 28.50.

Soybeans' Gains Sharply Trimmed By Profit Taking

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures prices pushed ahead 1 cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday, but the advance movement was sharply trimmed by profit taking before the close.

Grain futures closed on an irregularly lower tone. Trade was mixed, but commercial participation was very light and most trading activity was centered in the soybean complex.

Wheat prices showed little movement through the midway point, but then came under some selling pressure and prices fell around ½ cents, largely because some export business failed to meet trade expectations. Rye prices were mixed at the close after a session of very dull trade.

At the close, wheat was ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel lower, December 1.36; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, December 1.18⅜; oats were unchanged to ⅛ higher, December 61½ cents; rye was ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 1.13⅜; and soybeans were ⅛ lower to ½ higher, November 2.43⅞.

Retired Couple's Income Needs Detailed

Washington (AP) — The government said Wednesday it takes nearly $4,000 a year for a retired couple to maintain a "moderate" standard of living.

President Nixon, in proposing a 10% Social Security hike, said the average retired couple now gets $2,040 a year in benefits and is allowed to earn another $1,680 without any loss of benefits, for a maximum allowable income of $3,720.

Nixon's proposed 10% increase, plus a boost in extra allowed income to $1,800, would bring the average retired couple a shade above the Labor Department's "moderate" budget.

Costs Up 10%

The report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics said inflation had increased living costs of retired couples about 10% in the last two years.

Nixon also would provide automatic increases for future living cost hikes.

The report also included higher and lower living budgets since many couples fall below or above the average.

The report said the "intermediate" or "moderate" budget cost $3,940 in the spring of 1969, up nine per cent since spring of 1967. Living cost increases since spring would add at least another one per cent.

The lower budget was listed as $2,777 and the higher budget as $5,803.

Couple Defined

"The retired couple is defined as a husband, age 65 or over, and his wife, self-supporting, living independently in a separate dwelling, and enjoying reasonably good health," the report said.

"The budgets are based on the manner of living and consumer choices of the 1960s," it said. "They permit the couple to maintain their health and well-being, and to participate in community activities."

The majority of couples at all three budget levels assumed a mortgage-free home of five or six rooms, it said.

"The style of living provided by the lower budget differs from the intermediate and higher levels in this manner: A smaller proportion of couples own their homes, dwellings lack air conditioning, couples rely more on public transportation, they perform more services for themsllves, and they make greater use of free recreation facilities," it said.

"The higher budget assumes the largest proportion of home-owners, provides new cars for some couples, allows more household appliances and equipment, and more paid services than at the intermediate level," it said.

Medical Costs Same

Medical costs for all three groups were roughly the same because all benefited from the federa medical care program, it added.

But living costs in various cities could make a substantial difference, with Honolulu $1,200 or more higher than small southern cities for the moderate budget.

For the United States as an average, the moderate budget of $3,940 in the spring of 1969 was broken down this way:

Food $1,131; housing $1,433; transportation $412; clothing and personal care $396; medical care $337; other consumption $231.

The lower budget of $2,777 was broken down like this:

Food $851; housing $1,010; transportation $205; clothing and personal care $240; medical care $334; other consumption $137.

The higher budget of $5,803 was listed this way:

Food $1,387; housing $2,239; transportation $735; clothing and personal care $603; medical care $339; other consumption $495.

New York (UPI) — A three-year auction of the Thomas Winthrop Streeter library, the largest private book sale in nearly a century, ended finally with total sales of $3.1 million.

Vaccinations For Smallpox Recommended

Chicago (AP) — A leading pediatrician recommended Wednesday that smallpox vaccinations be continued in the United States in spite of the absence of the disease for the last 15 years.

The pediatrician, Dr. Samuel Lawrence Katz, cautioned that there are individuals who, because of other problems, should not be vaccinated.

He said that while the United States has not had a case since 1954, there have been 723 cases, 111 of them fatal, in Western Europe, where vaccination is not routine.

Moderate Quake Shakes Lompoc, Vandenberg AFB

Lompoc, Calif. (UPI) — Building swayed and objects were knocked off of shelves Wednesday as a moderately heavy earthquake jolted this southern California community site of the sprawling Vandenberg Air Force Base.

There were no immediate reports of major damage or injury.

Scientists at the seismological laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena said the quake was centered somewhere in the Pacific Ocean about 70 miles off Point Arguello.

Movie To Raise Money

New York (UPI) — A full-length motion picture on the struggle of Dr. Martin Luther King will be shown in 1,000 theaters across the country in January to raise $5 million for civil rights work.

Air Force Presses Hard For New Manned Bomber

Washington (UPI) — The Air Force wants a new manned bomber program even though it would cost $10 billion and there is no evidence the Soviet Union is developing anything comparable Congressional testimony showed Wednesday.

In previously secret testimony, the Air Force told a House appropriations subcommittee its plan for a fleet of 200 of the new bombers would cost about $50 million each, or a total of $10 billion.

That amount, said Grant L. Hansen, assistant Air Force secretary for research and development, would include research, production, spare parts and ground support equipment.

The Air Force testimony was given June 12. Last week, Defense officials said intelligence data indicated the Soviets were working on some kind of a bomber but it was not clear whether it was of short or intercontinental range.

But Rivers said he and Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill., senior GOP member of the Armed Services Committee, were privy to a Defense Department secret that disclosed the Russians indeed were developing a new manned bomber.

With that, Rivers abruptly pushed through his committee the $100 million authorization for research on a new U.S. manned bomber.

It looks as if we are in for another "Fender Bender" type of winter. We suggest you contact us for the best in traction tires. We have the latest in new tires, cold and hot retreads and tire studs, our retread plant has the capacity to give you the finest, for the lowest cost per tire mile. We guarantee our passenger cold retread mud & snow for 50,000 miles, twice the mileage of hot retreads. A poor traction tire can really cause a dangerous "Fender Bender" and cost 100 times more than the difference between a good & poor traction tire. 22 years of tire experience is your guarantee of safety & economy.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Peter Minuit bought Manhattan island from Indians May 6, 1626, for trinkets worth $24.

☆ ☆ ☆

It takes between 300 and 400 pounds of paint to cover the new jumbo passenger jets, although the coating measures only about three-thousandths of an inch thick.

President Zachary Taylor pastured his favorite horse, Whitey, on the White House lawn.

Muliebrity has nothing to do with mules, but is the feminine counterpart of virility, or womanliness.

In 1914, the proportion of field artillery to infantry was one gun to 1,000 rifles.

☆ ☆ ☆

"The blood-sweating behemoth of Holy Writ" was a name applied to the hippopotamus by early American showmen.

☆ ☆ ☆

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
